Kim Sigler Dies With Three Others In Airplane Crash

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 1 (AP)—Silver-haired Kim Sigler, who rocketed to the Michigan governor's chair seven years ago on the propulsion of a sensational grand jury expose, plummeted to his death late yesterday in a fiery plane crash. Three companions died with him.

Sigler's own four-place plane, threatening its way through a dense fog, snagged onto a guy wire supporting a 540-foot television tower. The impact sheared off one wing and sent the fuselage hurtling into a woods three-quarters of a mile away, where it crashed and burned.

The 59-year-old Republican ex-governor presumably was at the controls. He was a veteran and enthusiastic flier.

The other victims were Sigler's secretary, Mrs. Ruth Prentice, 41; her sister, Mrs. Virginia Schuyler, 28; and Mrs. Schuyler's husband, Harold, 37, of Lansing.

Returning From South
Sigler and his party were returning from a combination business-pleasure trip to Louisiana. The crash put a sudden end to a political career that went up and back down again as fast as his plane.

In the mid-1940's Sigler, as special prosecutor for a one-man state graft grand jury, was responsible for indictments against more than 100 legislators and lobbyists. Many of them went to prison. Bribe-taking to influence votes was exposed.

After a bitter feud over continuance of the grand jury, Sigler took a fling at politics in 1946. By a thumping majority of 340,000 votes, he defeated Democratic incumbent Murray D. Van Wagener.

But after one two-year term, Sigler was unseated by present Democratic Gov. C. Mennen Williams by 164,000 votes in a surprising political nosedive. Sigler's wife, May, has been living with one of their daughters, Mrs. Betty Slattery, in Carmel, Calif. Another daughter, Mrs. Richard Gossett, lives in Tulsa, Okla. A sister, Mrs. Goldie Holmes, lives in Gothenburg, Neb.

Report Hits Democrats Over White

Idaho Senator Declares They Will Be Eating Warmed Over Spy for Long Time

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) said today that as a result of the Harry Dexter White case the Democrats "will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

He aimed the remark at Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, and Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman, who have been assailing Republican handling of disclosures about White's promotion in the Truman administration.

"We'll have some more revelations for the American people," Welker told newsmen as he arrived to attend Senate Internal Security Subcommittee hearings tomorrow at which a former associate of White is to be questioned.

On an MBS radio broadcast last night, Fritchey accused Brownell of putting the FBI into politics in the White case while "pulling it out of crime busting."

"It seems to me," he said, "that Brownell is interested in pulling the FBI into politics with one hand and—if two federal judges are right—pulling it out of crime busting, on the other hand."

Fritchey said he referred to (a) a Denver Federal judge's criticism of the Justice Department for refusing to let the FBI help in a jury tampering case, and (b) an appeal to Brownell, apparently unanswered, from a federal judge in St. Louis for more help from the Justice Department in a grand jury investigation of labor union racketeering.

In addition, Fritchey said, his charge took in statements by Republican Reps. Wm. Smith of Kansas and Clare Hoffman of Michigan that political "pressure" was applied to stop a congressional probe of racketeering in Detroit.

Takes Swing at Mitchell
Welker also took a verbal swing at Mitchell for having said two weeks ago that "I don't think the people will eat warmed over spy."

The senator said "It is my prediction that Brother Mitchell will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

The issue of alleged communism in government has bounced back into front page prominence since Brownell declared, in a speech on Nov. 6, that former President Truman promoted White in 1946 in the face of a report from the FBI relating accusations that White was spying for Russia.

Truman, in a nationwide radio-television address, denounced the accusations as political trickery. He said White had been retained in government service so as not to jeopardize an FBI investigation of White and others.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover subsequently testified to the Internal Security subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), that he never approved such a plan.

Hoover also said White's promotion to the International Monetary Fund made it more difficult to keep a watch on him.

Fritchey said last night he thinks Hoover was distressed by being brought in as a witness, and he continued:

"The Democrats never once brought the FBI into partisan politics. But it was brought into partisan politics on Nov. 17 before the Jenner committee. We Democrats regret it and hope the FBI can be pulled back out of politics."

Asks Explanation
Fritchey called upon Brownell to explain why the Justice Department had not ordered the FBI to help Colorado's U. S. Dist. Atty. Charles Vigil conduct an investigation of jury tampering. Vigil, with the help of the Internal Rev-

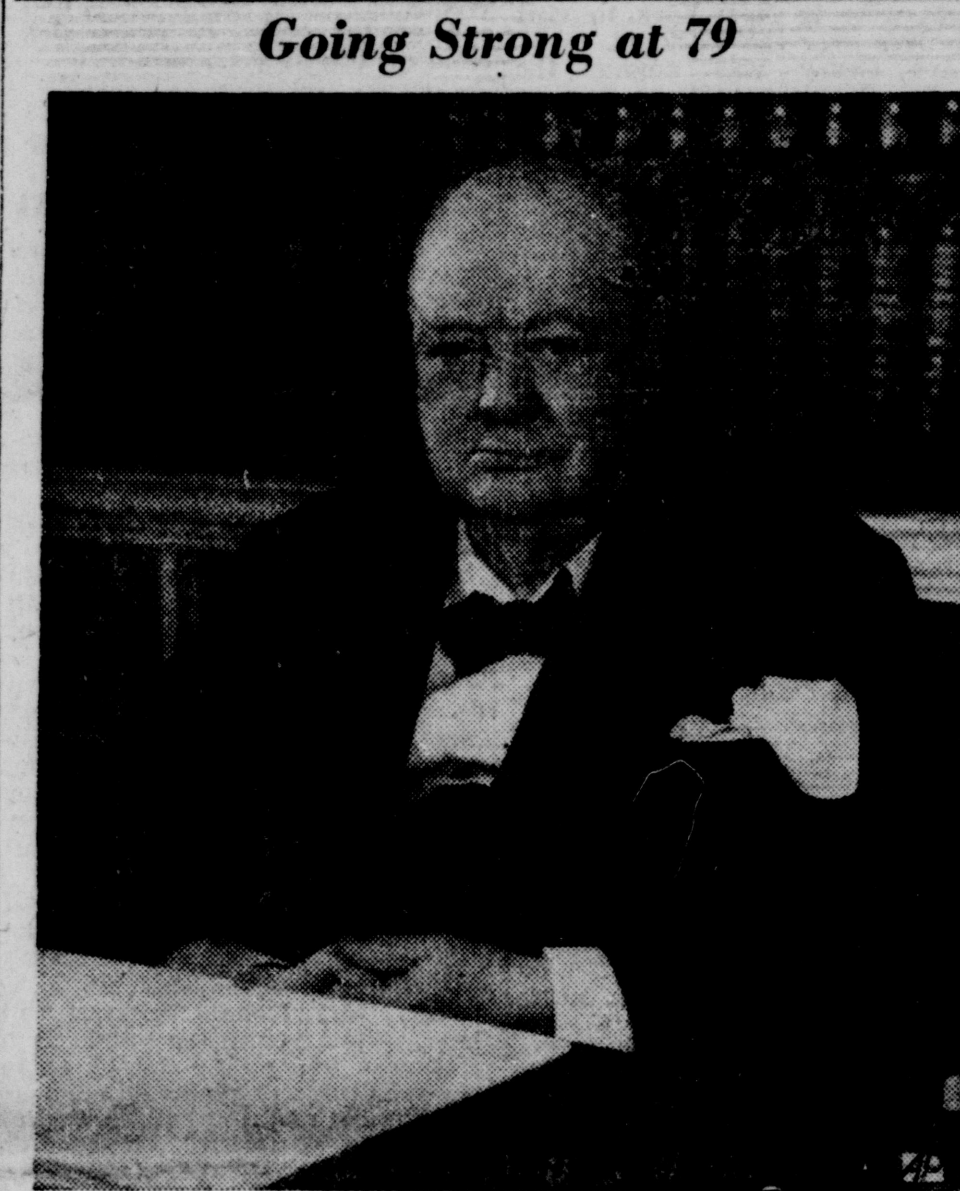

On prior occasions due to Senator Gittleson's engagements, District Attorney Howard St. John stated that Gittleson was actually engaged on a trial until late this week and he consented the case go over to the February term on condition it be disposed of at that time. Charles H. Gaffney also appears as local counsel for Schifano.

The present term of County Court will be concluded Thursday. Friday is a special term of Supreme Court and the December term of Supreme Court opens next Monday here.

Eight criminal matters were disposed of Monday afternoon. Jurors were then excused for the term, with the thanks of the court.

Telephone Cable To Cross Ocean
Longest Underwater Voice Will Cost Estimated 35 Millions

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today announced plans to construct the first telephone cable system across the Atlantic Ocean at a cost of 35 million dollars. It will be by far the longest under-seas voice cable in the world and the first laid at depths found in mid-ocean.

The longlines department of A T & T said developmental and research work on such a cable has been going on for 25 years. The project will take three years to complete.

The cable will not carry a wide enough band of frequencies for television.

Agreement Signed
An agreement has been signed for construction of the cable by A T & T, the British post office, which provides telephone service in Great Britain, and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp. The cable will be owned jointly by these three organizations.

The submarine telephone cable system will contain a group of First L. Pier 86
The work stoppage developed first at pier 86 where the huge liner United States was docking. It spread then to other so-called "luxury liner" piers dominated by "Pistol" Local 824 of the International Longshoremen's Assn., then to lower Manhattan, Brooklyn and piers of the New Jersey side of the Hudson river.

The AFL recently ousted the ILA for failing to rid itself of racketeers.

Included Are 22 Americans, One Briton and UNC Promises Fair Treatment

Pannunjom, Dec. 1 (AP)—Allied war prisoners who haven't come home begin considering their big choice tomorrow—democracy or communism.

Plans were completed today for UN interviewers to start talks at 9 a. m. (7 p. m. Tuesday EST) with 30 of the 328 South Koreans who have not returned.

After the South Koreans are finished—about 11 days of interviews—the allied teams will face the important problem of trying to win back 22 Americans and one Briton.

The big question is: How many?

The Communists wooed back only about 3 per cent of the 2,500 Chinese and Koreans they have interviewed—a humiliating propaganda wallowing.

How many allied prisoners will return is anyone's guess. Speculation based on information from some already returned indicates a high percentage will choose home.

Barring some last minute resistance on the part of the prisoners themselves, nothing stood in the way of the talks beginning as scheduled.

Prediction Confirmed
The allied move confirmed predictions made more than a month ago that explanations would start about Dec. 1.

"We want all of the prisoners listed as pro-Communist to get freedom of choice," a UN command spokesman said.

"We want people all over the world to understand that the UNC is willing to give these prisoners a free choice—even if they choose the Communists."

An allied officer said he believes the 30 ROKs would agree to come out for the first day's talks.

The allied effort will open with five South Korean interviewers, one at each of the five explanations.

Safety Belts For Autos Are AMA's Idea

St. Louis, Dec. 1 (AP)—Safety belts in automobiles could save thousands of lives in highway accidents, an American Medical Association (AMA) exhibit suggested today.

It finds that 453 out of 633 persons killed in one year in Indiana probably could have survived by some safety changes.

For they were not killed by accident collapse of their cars. They died from being thrown and tossed. Safety belts, crash helmets, or safety changes within cars apparently could have given them a new ticket on life.

The exhibit is presented by Sgt. Elmer Paul, head of the auto crash injury research section, Indiana State Police, and Trooper John B. Klein. It is part of a symposium on prevention of highway deaths at the AMA's mid-winter meeting opening today.

Safety belts, as just one means of saving lives, are being installed now by some car owners, Paul said. And 25 Indiana State Police cars now are equipped with them.

A harness-type belt, holding the chest and shoulders back, is better than the airplane seat-belt type, he added.

Heart Specialist Is Slain; Police Say Was Wrong Man

Detroit, Dec. 1 (AP)—Dr. Edward D. Spalding, a noted heart specialist, is dead, his office in Detroit's Professional Building and stepped into the rush of persons hurrying home from a routine day at work.

A few violent minutes later he lay shot dead on the pavement, police said, by a former mental patient who got the wrong man.

Barely half an hour later, two rookie patrolmen grabbed John Sherback, 51, a few blocks away. In Sherback's pocket was a list of persons he had condemned to death, they said. Spalding's name was not included.

Sherback had waited in the building lobby yesterday. When Dr. Spalding left, a witness, Mrs. Madeline Robinson, 49, said

Hits Views Of Lodge as 'Dynamite'

Bloc Appears Ready to Fight Whole Issue; U.S. Delegate Shocks Assembly

United Nations, Dec. 1 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky today branded U. S. charges of Red atrocities in Korea as "flagrantly concocted falsification."

The fiery Soviet delegate told the 60-nation UN General Assembly that charges detailed yesterday by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. of the United States were brought out to "dynamite" peace negotiations in Korea.

He pulled out all stops in calling the Lodge report "cynical," "cowardly," "a maneuver to cover the worst crimes of all perpetrated by the American military circles in Korea," and "redolent of slander."

Vishinsky was the first speaker at this morning's session, called to debate the American charges that some 30,000 persons were victims of atrocities committed by Communist Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

Determined to Fight
The Soviet bloc, counting on the military nations to stay out of the debate and abstain from voting apparently is determined to fight tooth and nail the whole atrocity issue.

India already has served notice that as head of the neutral nations repatriation commission in Korea, she will neither speak nor vote. Other neutrals, specially members of the Arab-Asian bloc, also are expected to keep silent.

There was little evidence, however, that the Soviet bloc would receive any overt support in the debate.

Most delegates sat in shocked silence yesterday as chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., delivered the stark atrocity report and introduced a resolution calling on the 60-nation assembly to:

1. Express "its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations Command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea";

2. Condemn "the commission by any government or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, and other atrocity acts against captured military personnel or civilian populations as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

In his speech Lodge raised the specter of a figure of nearly 30,000 atrocity victims to about 38,000. He later told newsmen it was his "personal conviction that 35,000 of these are dead." He explained that the higher figure included estimates of losses in the notorious death marches and prison camps which had not been included in the earlier U. S. Army report.

Lodge's denunciation of the bestial slayings was echoed in yesterday's debate by representatives of Britain, Turkey and Canada. All labeled them as affront against human rights.

The Soviet bloc's position in the debate was defined by Poland's Deputy Foreign Minister Marian Nazowski, who said the United States dragged the atrocity question before the UN as a propaganda maneuver designed to "wash off the stains of guilt" for Korean bombings by American planes and for waging germ warfare.

Little Reaction Noted
New Delhi, India, Dec. 1 (AP)—Indian newspapers gave banner headlines today to the Communist proposal that the Korean peace conference meet in New Delhi but there was little immediate reaction from responsible officials. One Indian leader commented: "It would be a great honor for New Delhi to have the peace conference here."

But an official government spokesman said: "we cannot comment on things like that—we can't take official notice of developments there until both sides have agreed on them."

Plans Under Way For Yule Program

Woodstock, Dec. 1—The Christmas Celebration Committee of the Woodstock Square Club met at the home of Leon Carey Sunday evening to make final arrangements for the annual event, which after many years is now an established tradition drawing a host of people to the village green on Christmas Eve.

Present at the meeting were Leon Carey, Lewis Wilson, George Laws, Robert Gordon and Ed Bauman. Complete details concerning the program will be announced.

The occasion, as in previous years, is sponsored by the Woodstock Square Club, with the cooperation of all the churches of the village.

Santa will arrive with an old fashioned Christmas gift of candy and oranges for each child, and prizes will be awarded for the decorated homes and business places.

Contributions, large or small, will be greatly appreciated. All contributions should be sent to Lewis Wilson, Woodstock.

The committee has also requested residents who know of any sick children who cannot come to the celebration, to call Woodstock 2939. Santa Claus will call at the home of every sick child on Christmas morning.

Arrests Announced

Boston, Dec. 1 (AP)—The FBI announced today the arrest of Charles J. Bradley, 39, New Bedford used car dealer, and said it was coupled with arrests in New York of three Bronx men on charges of conspiracy to transport stolen cars. The arrests, the announcement added, resulted from the investigation of a stolen car ring operating between New York and New England in which 70 late model cars have been recovered. Their value was placed at $140,000. Arrested in New York were Joseph Turetsky and Richard Gould, both of 2300 Bronx Park East, who, until recently, operated a used car dealership at 1783 Jerome avenue, Bronx. Also arrested was Carmine Philip Margiasso, 33, of 756 Rosedale avenue, Bronx, a landscape gardener.

Sonny Dunham, who had not been too well-known in the Saugerties area, can now share the limelight with other orchestras who have won the respect of Saugerties music critics. Charley Spivak, Tex Benke and Blue Barron have played for Legion audiences at various times. For those who have been fortunate enough to hear and dance to Dunham's music in New York, etc., the performance was no surprise. The dance program was preceded by four outstanding acts which were well received by the local audience. The vaudeville program included Hank Whitehouse who did some comical dance routines, Michael Chimes and his family of harmonica artists, the Whirling Wizards, a well-known roller skating team, and Ilona, a lovely acrobatic artist who also performed on the accordion and the saxophone. The dancing started after the show and continued on until 1 a. m. Patty Ryan, charming young vocalist, sang some popular songs. The hall was gayly decorated with red, white and blue streamers accenting displays of Old Glory and various Legion flags. General chair, man of the ball was Harold Swart.

The Lindemanns reported that squirrels have invaded the house already and raccoons are eating grain bought for the captive animals. This is proving an expensive caper as this grain costs about $100 a ton. There is also a

THE TAX BLUES

Many people, anticipating the automatic 10 per cent reduction of income taxes that will take effect next January 1, will be disappointed to find that the government will leave them with little, if any, more spending money.

As the income tax goes down, the Social Security rate goes up. For about half the nation's families, this means that the increase in their Social Security payments will be as big, or bigger than the income tax reduction. Families in the upper income brackets will benefit from tax reductions, but corporations will have to turn over larger Social Security payments, too.

The Eisenhower Administration, which had specifically promised tax reductions in its campaign, foresaw this dilemma last year, and tried to persuade Congress to postpone the Social Security tax rise. With much justification Congress refused, on the basis that to keep the Social Security system solvent, thus protecting the workers, contributions should be periodically increased, in accordance with the original concept of the law when it was adopted in 1935.

The income tax reduction so loudly touted by many Congressmen will never be seen by many families. It will prove a source of embarrassment to politicians. It will certainly increase the pressure for further tax reductions next year, thus becoming another headache for the present administration.

WHERE THE STATES FAIL

If the federal government is taking over duties which the states should perform, it is the states' own fault, says Charles Edison, one of the best authorities on government in the nation. Edison is the son of the inventor, a former governor of New Jersey and secretary of the navy, now chairman of the governing council of the National Municipal League. He told the League's meeting at Richmond, Va., that so-called federal encroachments arise from "the unrepresentative and often irresponsible character of the state legislatures." Most citizens who watch their legislatures in action will echo Edison's sentiments.

He put the word "unrepresentative" first. Old-time constitutional provisions give thinly populated rural areas an equality with large cities. Edison's own state of New Jersey is an example. There, while the lower house of the legislature is elected according to population, the senate is in the grip of the farms. Each county, no matter how large or how small, has one senator and no more. On this account United States senators, elected from a state as a whole, are often really more representative of the state's true feelings than are its legislators.

Before the states demand the transfer of federal functions to them, they should put their houses in order.

AIR POLLUTION

The smoke-filled haze that descended over the northern Atlantic seaboard for a period of more than five days recently, causing respiratory ailments, throat infections, serious automobile accidents and a variety of other hazards, indicates that the elimination of air pollution will soon become as important as purification of our water supplies.

The freak weather conditions over the Atlantic seaboard, which was blanketed by a warm layer of air in the upper atmosphere, was the immediate cause of the smog that blanketed the area. But chiefly to blame were the huge amounts of industrial wastes pouring out of smokestacks in the area. The result was a dense haze, which, when combined with fog, reduced traffic to a crawl, prevented airplanes from landing or taking off on schedule, delayed trains and buses, and caused countless other inconveniences whose costs cannot be estimated.

Industry has begun to accept responsibility for ending the pollution of streams, rivers and other waterways into which it dumps its untreated wastes. Now it must take steps to stop the pollution of the atmosphere.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE PILTDOWN MAN

The archeologists, anthropologists and other specialists have long labored to discover the origin of man, avoiding, of course, the hypothesis that he was created by God in His image. These scientific folk have dug in the debris of the past for skulls and bones and stones and potteries, hoping eventually to come upon the first ancestor of us all.

They have found some bones in Heidelberg in Germany, in Java, in the south of France, in the vicinity of Peking in China, and in Piltdown in Sussex, England. And out of these bones, they reconstructed frightening caricatures of manhood to which they gave various names, such as Pithecanthropus Erectus and Cro-Magnards, etc., all of which at school we had to memorize and believe, just as the theological students in the Middle Ages were required to know the details of the lives of angels.

No skeptic dared to raise even an eyebrow because science is infallible and each scientist stands above the normal errors of man until another scientist proves that the contrary of any hypothesis can be as correct as the original. Thus, we poor mortals, knowing only the facts of life, can never tell whether Einstein's correction of Newton is a perfection itself until someone in this intellectual elite corrects Einstein, which may or may not happen while we are alive, for such genius does not often beset the human race.

At any rate, the Piltdown Man, of whose existence I was required to believe nearly 40 years ago, is no more. He has been undone by chemistry, which wore away his patina and proved him to be a fraud perpetrated by a humorist, who while unknown has achieved immortality.

Of Piltdown, that popularizer of science and history, H. G. Wells, wrote:

"The bony remains discovered at Piltdown in Sussex display a creature still ascending only very gradually from the sub-human. . . . The first scraps of this skull were found in an excavation for road gravel in Sussex. Bit by bit other fragments of this skull were hunted out from the quarry heaps until most of it could be picked together. It is a thick skull, thicker than that of any living race of men, and it has a brain capacity intermediate between that of Pithecanthropus and man. This creature has been named Eoanthropus, the dawn man. . . .

"There was moreover a jaw-bone among these scattered remains, which was at first assumed naturally enough to belong to Eoanthropus, but which it was afterwards suggested was probably that of a chimpanzee, it is extraordinarily like that of a chimpanzee, but Dr. Keith, one of the greatest authorities in these questions, assigns it, after an exhaustive analysis in his 'Antiquity of Man' (1915), to the skull with which it is found. It is, as a jaw-bone, far less human in character than the jaw of the much more ancient Homo Heidelbergensis, but the teeth are in some respects more like those of living man."

Well, it apparently was not so. It is now assumed that some fellow, with artistry and skill, pasted a lot of odds and ends together and did a job on the scientist.

Now, we who know nothing—not having Ph.D.'s—ought not to badger the scientific elite, because one error does not prove that they are all wrong. We should recognize their sincerity in believing what they see even if the thing was put there for them to see.

My complaint is that they ridicule those who believe what we do not see or hear or smell or touch because some concepts are not measurable by instruments or by knowledge but only by faith. The scientists reject our faith but insist upon their own as infallible. They really do not know for a fact that the Piltdown gravel pit is 100,000 years old, although they are willing to believe that, just as they believed, up to this week, that the Piltdown Man was somewhere between 50,000 and 100,000 years old. He turns out to have been manufactured like a toy in one of Woolworth's stores but with greater competence.

Now that the Piltdown sub-man is no longer an ancestor, I think I shall return to the theologians, who, if they cannot prove their case by a microscope, give me the comfort of a power outside myself, whose moral law is, at any rate, a guide to decent living.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

RHEUMATISM

So much was expected from ACTH and cortisone that it was called a "cure" for rheumatism and arthritis and throughout the civilized world patients waited hopefully for months expecting that their rheumatism and arthritis would soon be a thing of the past. Added to their anxiety was the long wait before these wonder drugs became available to the general public. This delay is explained by the fact that as many as 20 to 30 different chemical processes were necessary in the preparation of these drugs before they were safe for human consumption.

In their pamphlet, "What You Should Know About Arthritis," the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society gives up-to-date advice. Among things it is important to know about these diseases are the following:

If you suffer or think you suffer from some form of rheumatic disease, your first thought should be to consult your family doctor and not follow suggestions of friends or neighbors, however kindly given.

"What is good for your neighbor's rheumatism won't necessarily be good for yours. Because your sister or your cousin sings the praises of one kind of treatment or commends another, doesn't mean that you will experience the same results." Only a doctor can make a correct diagnosis and the earlier arthritis is diagnosed and treated, the better will be the result. It is easier to prevent a disability or deformity than it is to correct it.

Also, don't expect too much from the various methods of treatment. "It is an absolute fact that there is no drug, diet, or other remedy which will cure that, is wipe out completely and for all time, the symptoms of all cases of the common or serious forms of arthritis and rheumatism."

One of the misleading and distressing occurrences is that for some unknown reason many cases of rheumatism and arthritis clear up by themselves and if the patient at this time is taking a drug, diet, or some special form of treatment he naturally attributes his relief from symptoms to this diet, drug, or form of treatment, instead of to nature.

Another important point that all should know is what to do about exercise or physical work. Some people will tell you to keep going at all costs. This is good advice to prevent stiffness and deformity but not if joints are swollen. When joints are not swollen, red or inflamed, then movement, exercise, improves the joint and muscle tissue in or near the joint, but can be dangerous if joint is inflamed or swollen.

What about drugs to relieve pain and prevent disability and deformity? As stated before, the drug that has been used for more than thirty years, acetylsalicylic acid (aspirin) still stands first. When the patient is allergic to this drug (causing stomach upsets), the addition of certain other drugs makes it possible for the physician to prescribe very large doses of acetylsalicylic acid or other salicylates without causing untoward effects.

Something a Bit More Appropriate in a Name

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — News cables from abroad are filled, these days, with dispatches telling what's going to happen at the Big-Three Bermuda conference Dec. 4-8. Some of these dispatches, apparently inspired by people who want certain things to happen a certain way, go so far as to predict what the outcome of the Bermuda conference will be. Some of these predictions come from spokesmen for countries that won't even be represented at the meeting.

All this is in marked contrast to official statements being made in Washington about what will go on at Bermuda. If anything, the positive accomplishments to be expected from the conference are being played down here. It is, in short, not expected to settle anything. If it produces any new master plan or grand strategy to cure any one of the world's numerous aches and pains, no one will be more pleased and surprised than the heads of the American, British and French governments and their foreign ministers involved.

Washington officials point out that it is the heads of the governments who are meeting—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and Premier Joseph Laniel. Their foreign ministers are being taken along just as advisers.

For this reason, U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles doesn't even want to talk about what will happen at Bermuda. He will be there with a staff of his top experts on all world problems. But they will be there to speak only when spoken to.

Conference Informal

President Eisenhower, for his part, emphasizes that the Bermuda conference will not have a formal agenda. As he told his Nov. 18 press conference, nobody was going to Bermuda with any program of things to discuss or settle. The conference is to be simply an informal talk among the individuals present.

The President did say that the things they would talk about were obvious: North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Asia, Korea, Indo-China, and other problems. If conversations among the Big Three could eliminate causes for friction, that would be all to the good.

There will of course be an official communiqué at the end of the conference which will say the parties found themselves in agreement on major policies, and decided to push forward with renewed vigor toward announced objectives. Subjects on which there is disagreement are usually soft-pedaled with an announcement that they are being given further study.

The American-emphasized informality of the Bermuda talks, without any fixed agenda, is in marked contrast to the proposals which have been made for a Big-Four conference to include the Russians.

The U. S. point of view all along has been that if there is a conference with the Communists, an agreement must be made in advance as to what will be talked about.

Differ on Approach

The Russian approach to a Big-Four conference has been just the opposite. What the Kremlin wants is a conference without an agenda, to discuss world tensions. The Bermuda conference is likened in that it is to discuss the minor tensions existing between the three major western powers. American officials expect Allied ties to be strengthened at Bermuda, rather than weakened.

The informal character which President Eisenhower has specified for the Bermuda conference does not mean that the American delegation will attend without preparation. There has been much burning of midnight oil in the State Department to get ready for any situation that may arise.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles always likes to go into a conference with an advance draft of the communiqué he would like to have issued at its end. This is considered good diplomatic practice. British and French delegations may be expected to do the same.

But few if any American experts expect the four-day Bermuda conference to produce any magic formula for dealing with the Russians, Red China, South-east Asia, Austria, Germany or any other spot of tension. In fact, overoptimism on what may be expected from Bermuda is considered somewhat harmful to American best interests.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 1—Freedom of the press vanished in the last few days for most of the newspapers in New York City at the behest of an invisible government—labor-union dictatorship. What the Constitution of the United States, through the Bill of Rights, is supposed to protect—the right to publish without restraint from any government, visible or invisible—has not been protected.

The Sherman anti-trust law, which was passed by Congress in 1890 as a means of preventing monopoly and any interference with production—was originally intended to cover all restraints of trade. But the Congress exempted labor unions from its provisions and thereby permitted a conspiracy by a group of labor unions to prohibit publication of newspapers whenever the word goes from the leaders of such unions to do so.

Actually there has been no strike as between printers or stereotypers and reporters, on the one hand, and the newspapers, but these employees of the New York newspapers which do have a strike on their hands with the photoengravers refuse to cross picket lines anyway. That ties up production completely.

Each of the newspapers has contracts with various unions that are not themselves parties to the strike, but nowadays it is apparently more important for union members "to respect picket lines" than it is to respect contracts.

There is evidently no protection for an employer against the conspiracy of several unions to violate contracts with the excuse that they don't want to cross picket lines. Neither the Taft-Hartley Act nor its predecessor, the Wagner Act makes it unlawful for a labor union to refuse to cross a picket line where there is a strike going on. Thus, the law of the land permits, by its exemptions or omissions, the strangling of a free press. Certainly it was never intended that a few labor-union leaders could do what the Wagner Act itself cannot do—prevent newspapers from publishing.

But the problem is not novel. It affects all sorts of businesses which have no way to protect themselves against heavy losses whenever any one of a number of unions decides to tie up production in a plant. The press, however, has considered itself immune from interference with publication because of the Bill of Rights, and yet no newspaper has ever sought to carry a case to the courts on the ground that labor unions—utilizing powers granted by Congress with respect to compulsory collective bargaining and the "union shop"—are in effect depriving the press of their freedom to publish.

The right of the members of any union as individuals to quit work as an exercise of economic power is always conceded, but the right of the employer to be protected in his contracts with other unions so that they may not close down his plant is just as inviolate. There is no constitutional right to call a strike or to persuade members of unions to quit work. A concerted action by union officers to order a work stoppage is not inherent in the Constitution. The courts have decided this when the government has seized properties and ordered strikers to return to work.

The right of unions to operate at all and to order their members to quit work is one that only the laws of the land have granted. It can be taken away at any time that the Supreme Court of the United States may decide that a conspiracy to stop the newspaper from publishing is a violation of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution itself.

The New York newspaper strike emphasizes the need for amendments to the Anti-Trust Laws taking away from the unions their present immunity from suit. They can be made amenable to law whenever they exercise monopoly power far beyond their own membership and extend their authority into other unions and other lines of business. No true "liberal" can remain silent on what has just happened in New York and consistently claim to be for the champion of constitutional rights in America. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 30—Official correspondence in the state department states that Sam Carp, of Bridgeport, Conn., a brother-in-law of Vyacheslav Molotov, the Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, displaced David Rosoff as director of Amtorg, the official Russian trading corporation which was granted a $2,000,000 "break" by the United States treasury in an alleged income tax deficiency.

Rosoff retained his title of director but was put completely under Carp's orders. Carp also had his own Russian purchasing corporation in New York. He had a habit of visiting Russia annually until the late thirties when he brought back bundles of American money, much of it in $1,000 bills. He has never been called on to prove what he did with this money and the total amount is hopelessly balled up in the answers which he gave in two separate examinations by the House Committee on un-American Activities.

The domestic inquiry prodded him for information about the ownership of a new deal paper in Connecticut whose financial affairs were clouded in litigation. The committee asked Carp whether he had put Russian money into this propaganda organ and it was flatly charged that it followed the Communist line in some matters. However, Carp insisted that none of the money went into this rag and sheet and the committee failed to subpoena his books. No inquiry ever troubled the paper or its editors. The paper was giving loud support to the late Senator Brien MacMahon, the New Deal's commissar for Connecticut in those days, and to Eleanor Roosevelt in her forays into the CIO's industrial domain in the important munitions centers of Connecticut.

Meanwhile, clusters of "intellectual" Communists infiltrated the pretty little rural New England towns of the area, even as far back as the Berkshire foothills. This penetration was reflected recently in noisy reaction in favor of Eleanor Roosevelt when she made a speech in Kent, a Berkshire town. She would have done this nation less harm even if he had been allowed to continue his treacherous course than Roy Cohn and David Schine wrought by their official inquiries in Europe for Senator McCarthy's committee.

There are a number of rich New Yorkers in the area who are well spotted by the rest of the community. Joe Connolly, Jr., the son of the late manager of King Features, has bought an interest in the weekly New Milford Times which serves that Berkshire region and, for the first time, an aggressive, pro-American paper is now carrying the fight to the Reds. Max Lowenthal, revealed by Jonathan Daniels as the original discoverer and promoter of Harry Truman for President, has a summer place up there. Although Truman yielded the allied victory to Russia at Potsdam, there is no reason to think Henry Wallace in the same situation would have served the Russian interests any the less, and Lowenthal opposed Wallace. Wilton and Ridgefield also are centers of infection.

The State Department documents relate that one of Carp's American agents, a Democrat and a former congressman, told Joseph C. Green, the chief of the Office of Arms and Munitions

Control, that "Carp's position was so firmly established that he could and did summon the Soviet ambassador to New York to confer with him whenever he wished." This fixer, paid with Russian money, told Mr. Green that "the other day when he was in Carp's office in New York, Carp called Stalin by telephone. As a result of this conversation, Carp left on the Queen Mary to report in person in Moscow on the difficulties he was encountering in his efforts to purchase a battleship."

The Russians wanted a ship of 60,000 tons to 65,000 tons with 18-inch guns. Under treaties we were limited to 45,000 tons and 16-inch guns. The officers of our navy were giving Carp a run-around. At last, plans were drawn for a ship of about 60,000 tons with 18-inch guns, but the navy insisted that this design would alter naval warfare. Therefore, the navy gave Carp the business to keep this leviathan out of Russia's hands.

In the end, an American officer was sent to Moscow to explain a set of plans for a great battleship which were sent over in the Russian diplomatic pouch. The information is not specific as to whether these were the authentic plans for the ship which was to be built in the designs and fighting ways obsolete. As far as the record goes, the Russians never built this monster. There are suspicions in the record that they were willing to spend $200,000,000 merely to get the turrets and the 18-inch guns. It is not clearly revealed whether they wanted them for a warship or for land fortifications.

The public in Bridgeport has been hearing of Sam Carp for years as Molotov's brother-in-law, but the prevailing opinion has been that he is a shrewd but rather comic fellow who just wanted "to make a dollar" as he put it in his testimony, by exploiting his relationship to Molotov. There has never been any previous public intimation that he was so important that he could summon the Russian ambassador with a snap of his fingers or phone Stalin and receive a summons to Moscow. He has denied with indignation that he ever was a Communist or a Russian "agent" although he frankly admitted that he was commissioned to buy one or more of the colossal warships and that he did buy military planes. He also inquired about the purchase of a watch factory but with undisclosed results.

Bite Is Put on Him

Omaha (AP)—Here's another version of the story of the gent who got bit by his own teeth. An Omahan with the courtesy of a born of 70 years' experience, stepped aside to let a secretary pass through the office's swinging door. It swung back and nailed him on the chest. He let out an "ouch" as he extracted his chop-fer from a breast pocket. They had bitten him.

Author Is Ill

Arlington, Vt., Dec. 1 (AP)—Friends of author Dorothy Canfield Fisher, 74, report she was stricken last Saturday and is ill at her home. It was reported the widely-known writer is not in serious condition but that she might be confined for several weeks. Telephone calls were being refused at the Fisher home. She lives with her husband John R. Fisher, who was active in educational circles before his retirement.

Salvation Army Doughnut

The first of The Salvation Army's traditional doughnuts was made, quite by accident, in France during World War 1. The "Salles" had planned to make fudge for the soldiers, but the men wanted more food. The first doughnuts were cut out with a soldier's pocket-knife, and fried in a container that would hold only seven at a time. Later in the same year, The Salvation Army girls were serving 8,000 a day.

811 Japanese Return to Homes

Maizuru, Japan, Dec. 1 (AP)—Laughing and waving, 811 former Japanese soldiers who were captured by the Russians trooped ashore today from a ship which brought them from Soviet prison camps.

Some had been prisoners in Siberia 14 years.

The highest ranking officer among them, Lt. Gen. Yoichi Hitomi, who commanded the 135th Division of the Kwantung Army in World War 2, reported a tremendous buildup of Soviet jet air power in eastern Siberia.

Hitomi said 80 per cent of the aircraft now flying in the area of Khabarovsk, due north of Vladivostok, are jet fighters similar to the MIG and bigger twin-jet planes.

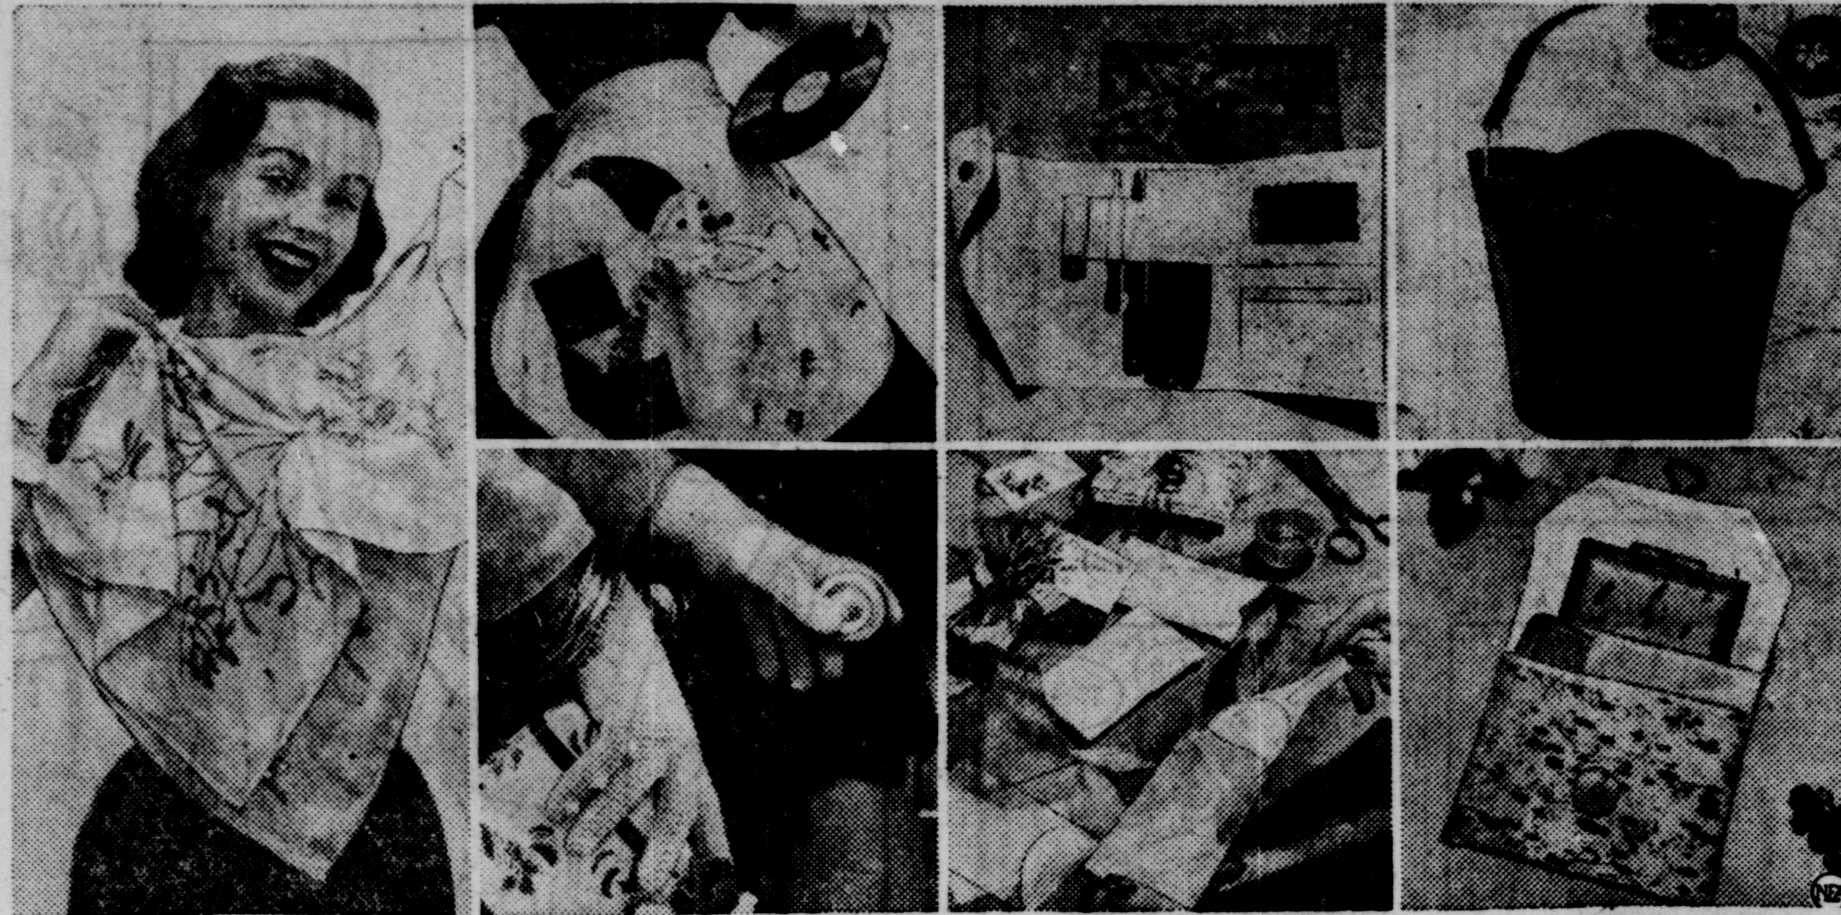

The former prisoners were the first of 1,247 Japanese POWs and civilian internees in Russia whose release was negotiated by the Japanese Red Cross. Red Cross officials said they did not know when the other 436 will be returned.

Some who returned today were captured in 1939, when Japan and Russia fought an undeclared border war in Manchuria.

Driscoll Calls Special Session

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll, has called the New Jersey Legislature into special session.

Driscoll issued a proclamation late yesterday setting 2 p. m. Friday as the time for the session. Driscoll said the legislators were to meet "principally for the purpose of considering unemployment compensation legislation."

The governor also called the Senate into special session for 3 p. m. to receive nominations.

Driscoll told newsmen last week he would ask the Legislature to appropriate $500,000 to meet the costs of handling unemployment claims until next June 30. The end of the current fiscal year. He said recent cuts in federal grants to states for unemployment compensation claims had worked a hardship on employers and employees.

The governor has also announced his hope that the Legislature will approve bills to increase the state's water supplies; make full time the district courts in counties where there are two or more district court judges; and permit counties and municipalities rather than the Legislature to decide the size of salaries and their governing bodies.

Six Persons Injured

Athens, Greece, Dec. 1 (AP)—A new earthquake injured at least six persons, collapsed 90 houses and damaged 300 others last night.

In south central Greece. First reports from the quake area made no mention of fatalities. Official dispatches said six persons were injured in the village of Makrynou and an unspecified number of persons were hurt in adjoining hamlets. The quake also rocked the nation's west coast and was felt in the Ionian Islands, where thousands were killed or left homeless last summer by the worst such disaster in modern Greek history.

Traffic Goes Sexy

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—In a report on a survey of 1952 accidents, The Nebraska State Accident Record Bureau said men drivers were involved in 84.78 per cent of the accidents. Then it quickly added "the surprisingly large percentage of male drivers should not be viewed with too much alarm. There are no definite figures to prove it, but it is taken for granted that most of the driving in the state is being done by male drivers." Around the state house they give you one guess as to who wrote that report—a male or a female.

WHATZIT?— Meet "Gus the Mithril Monster." He's the "flying laboratory" plane at the Bendix Aviation Corporation's Baltimore plant. Radio engineers gave him his eyes and nose—which are specially designed 1000-watt landing lights being used in experiments.

Volunteers Will Canvass Homes For Yule Funds

Because answers to letters of appeal sent by the Volunteers of America are returning slowly, the organization has planned a door-to-door canvass for gifts to finance its Christmas program.

A spokesman said, "This will help to remind those who have not sent in their money, and help those who feel they would like to give and have not been asked."

It was stressed that, "It is necessary to know just what amount will be available for the actual Christmas effort of the organization."

Reporting on the 1952 yule program, it was revealed that 46 baskets of food were given to needy families in this area. Baskets contained enough groceries for a complete meal. Children were given candy and extras as well as cereals and soups for an extra meal.

The older people were all given a glass of jelly and fruit for a special treat. New shoes and clothing were purchased for 23 children. Parties were held for 76 children and 104 were given toys. Holiday remembrances were given 109 aged persons. There were others who needed some assistance, but money did not hold out.

"We do not want to feel that any child or old person is forgotten this year," the Volunteers said.

Beginning Friday, the Chimney will be in front of Grant's on Wall street.

"If everyone will give just a little—one will be left out. Please be generous," the Volunteers asked.

The U. S. Geological Survey estimates installed water power in the world in 1947 at 87 million horsepower.

Open for Business

New Paltz, Nov. 30—Two new enterprises, a laundromat and a beauty shop, opened recently in New Paltz.

The New Paltz Laundromat, with 10 machines for washing and drying clothes, is owned by Frank Rinaldo of Highland. He reports that facilities will be available later for dry cleaning and laundering of shirts.

Mildred Strong's Beauty Shop is located at Mrs. Strong's home, 11 Millrock road. Mrs. Strong was formerly associated with the New Paltz Beauty Shop which closed recently.

Study Council Plans

Visitation Program

New Paltz, Nov. 30—The Mid-Hudson Study Council met recently at the College Union Building for a training program in connection with the New York State Teachers Association study of comparative costs of elementary programs. Observers will visit schools on an inter-visitation plan to study elementary school programs.

Two members from the faculty, two citizens and two visitors will make up the visiting team of six. The training program was attended by representatives from Carmel, Brewster, Mahopac, Millbrook, Red Hook, Haldane, New Paltz, Kingston, Wappingers Falls, Kerhonkson, Tri Valley, Walden, Warwick, Chester, Goshen, Newburgh, Highland Falls and New Windsor.

Representatives from New Paltz are Dr. George Thomas, Rodney Jones, Mrs. Albert Kerr and Mrs. William Jay. The Campus School will be visited by the team during the first week in December.

Citizens' Committee

Tours High School

New Paltz, Nov. 30—Fifteen members of the Citizens' Advisory Committee met at the high school recently for a conducted tour of the building by Principal Frank Bugar.

The purpose was to familiarize the members with the present plant and to see how proposed plans for the new addition will utilize the present building. Classrooms which met or failed to meet state requirements were pointed out. One classroom, located in the basement, is not in accordance with regulations, due to a narrow stairway. The windows are also below ground level which makes light and ventilation poor.

Another surprising fact is that the present school, above the second floor, is not fireproof and has wooden beams, joists and floors. As the committee works on the project, news and information will be brought to the community through a publicity committee appointed by Mrs. John Jacobson, chairman. The committee members are Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. Robert Swain, Mrs. Thomas McKinney and B. H. Matteson. Mrs. Jacobson explained the purpose of the committee to new members. Bugar urged members to visit new school plants. Plans have been made to visit Ontario Central School on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 6. Those present at the tour on Sunday were Bugar, Mrs. Jacobson, Mrs. Swain, Mrs. McKinney, Mrs. Jay, Miss Ruth Jones, George Maestric, Frank Morelli, Joe Krajicek, Jr., Melvin Carroll, Herman Glanz, Joseph Foley, Harold Elsbree, John Glancy, David Corwin, B. H. Matteson and Frank Kelly. The committee seeks to represent all areas of the school district and all interests and groups in the community. Members are urged to attend meetings.

Cobra Venom Helps

Miami, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—A few "human polio victims" have recovered after treatment with a preparation made from cobra venom, the University of Miami announced yesterday. It was the first official disclosure that human patients have been given the venom preparation with which Dr. Murray Sanders and his associates have been experimenting for nearly five years. Dr. Sanders, who announced last August that the preparation has been shown to have a blocking effect on the development of polio virus in monkeys, said the use in humans "was to serve research aims only."

Wagner to Name Brown to Position

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Mayor-elect Robert F. Wagner, Jr., said yesterday he will name Peter Campbell Brown, former chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board, as the city's investigation commissioner.

Brown was named by former President Truman to the federal board in 1950, and designated chairman in 1952. He resigned in April, 1953, to resume his law practice.

As investigations commissioner, he will be the mayor's chief agent in carrying out probes into reported laxities and malfeasance in city affairs. The post is now held by James H. Sheils.

16 Persons Hurt As Trains Collide

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—At least 16 persons were hurt—none of them serious—in the head-on crash last night of two Erie railroad passenger trains that were moving at reduced speeds.

The front ends of the Diesel locomotives powering the trains were damaged, but the passenger cars were not derailed and appeared undamaged. There were no fatalities.

The mishap occurred at 6:30 p. m. on an overpass about a mile east of the Paterson station. Involved was the "Erie Limited," which is a Chicago-Jersey City express, and a Jersey City-Waldwick local.

Police said the westbound local train was on the eastbound track at the time of the collision. A spokesman for the railroad said the local apparently was not routed properly. He said signal equipment and the switches were checked, and discounted possibility of mechanical failure.

It took almost three hours to cut apart the two locomotives and clear the track.

All but one of those hurt were New Jerseyans. The other was a New York city man.

Garbage Strike Is Postponed a Week

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A threatened strike of sanitation truck drivers which would have crippled garbage collections from private businesses in the New York area was postponed last night for one week.

The strike had been scheduled at midnight by 1,500 members of Local #13, Private Sanitation Union, AFL. In addition to the city, it would have affected Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Daniel Kornblum, director of the City Division of Labor Relations, said the union agreed to postpone the strike at the request of Mayor Impellitteri.

The union is seeking to increase salaries to $92 for drivers and $85 for helpers. Present scales were not disclosed.

Kornblum said pending further efforts by the Labor Relations Division the union scheduled a meeting Monday night to discuss possible strike action.

Cooke Is in Formosa

Taipei, Formosa, Dec. 1 (AP)—The former commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet, retired Vice Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., arrived today for a week's visit. He will be received by President Chiang Kai-shek.

Telephone Rates Would Be Raised; Permission Asked

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—The New York Telephone Co. proposes to increase its rates 75 cents a month for most home phones and $2 a month for most business phones, effective Jan. 1.

The company yesterday asked the Public Service Commission for increases totalling an estimated $68,850,000 a year—or approximately 10 per cent of its current revenue.

The commission will consider the plan at a meeting next week, a PSC spokesman said. In all the company's previous bids for a phone rate increase, the PSC has suspended the filing and held public hearings.

Keith S. McHugh, president of the phone company, said rising costs and the need for more capital to expand service made the rate increases necessary.

Other Boosts Asked
In addition to the monthly charges, the firm asked for these increases:

One-fourth of a cent additional for each call beyond the number specified in monthly contracts; five cents additional for some toll calls; 10 cents a month more for extension phones in homes and 25 cents in business offices.

It also sought small increases in charges for private branch exchange, private lines, connecting service, moving instruments and substituting one for another.

Business subscribers in rural areas would pay an additional 75 cents a month, instead of the full $2. Only "special service stations"—rural systems owned by small groups and connected to the company's lines—would be exempt from the increase for home phones.

Increased Previously
New York Telephone increased its rates by approximately 11 per cent of its annual revenue in 1950, and by approximately 4 per cent in 1952. Since then increases in long distance and teletype rates have added nearly 2 per cent to its revenue.

McHugh said these amounted to "the smallest increase in telephone rates of any state" and compared them with what he called "a rise of 92 per cent in the cost of living."

He declared the company's equipment and operating costs were up, and noted that unions representing its employees were bargaining for another wage increase.

McHugh said the company's construction program would require about 100 million dollars a year in new capital "for several years ahead." He indicated the higher phone rates would encourage investors to put up the money.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Britishers' Bid Is Too Strong

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

North's bidding was a bit too strong by American standards, on the hand shown today. South might have a rather light third-hand bid, and North would make allowance for that possibility by raising to only three hearts. South would then go on to game.

The hand was actually played in the European championships by a team of English women against a team of Swedish women. Mrs. Nico Gardener held the South cards at one table, and had no objection to her partner's vigorous bidding. North could well afford to bid the hand to the hilt, for Mrs. Gardener proceeded to play it to perfection.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and Mrs. Gardener tried the jack from dummy. East covered with the queen, and declarer won with the king. She next led a trump to dummy's queen and returned a trump, forcing out West's ace. West got out with a third round of trumps, leaving it up to declarer to find a way of avoiding the loss of a diamond and two spades.

Mrs. Gardener found the way.

She cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club. She next entered dummy with the ace of diamonds, noting that West had to discard a spade on this trick, and then led the last club from the dummy. Instead of ruffing, declarer threw her losing diamond, allowing West to win the trick with the ten of clubs.

That was the end of poor West, of course. She had to lead spades, allowing declarer to make her king. South lost only one trump, one spade, and one club, making her contract. At the other table the Swedish declarer missed this line of play and was set one trick.

Dog Is Lookout

Haverhill, Mass. (AP)—When police approached a house where they were certain a gambling game was in progress, a dog ran toward the door, barking. The place was empty when police entered with their warrant. They believe the dog had been trained to warn the gamblers.

Shokan

Shokan, Nov. 30—Donald and Dorothy Johnson and two daughters were callers in the village center Sunday. The Johnsons, who have an antiques shop on the Plank road, report having done a good business thus far in the year, a success which they attribute in no small part to the regular use of Freeman Classified.

Mrs. William Stevens of Ashokan has been notified of her appointment as stenographer for Schools 5 and 6 in Kingston. Mrs. Stevens formerly was employed in a similar capacity in one of the area's largest manufacturing plants.

Ralph Elefant, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elefant and one time representative at Legion's Boys State, has been awarded highest scholastic honor (95 per cent) at the Ontario Central School.

The Treble Choraliers will give their winter concert Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 8:30 p. m. in the Hudson High School auditorium. This group of women, the only one of its kind in this area, will sing under the able and sensitive direction of Roland Heermance, conductor of the Catskill Glee Club. James Wolfe, brilliant American pianist from Omaha, Neb., will give a Beethoven and Chopin program as guest soloist. Tickets for the performance may be obtained from Mrs. W. S. van der Bent of Shokan, who is a member of the chorus.

Rudolph Juralek of Albany who has been employed for the past two weeks in laying the foundations and cement flooring for the Thord Fredenholm house, along the north side of the Ontario Trail, will finish the job this week. The work of readying the Fredenholm's reservoir road dwelling for occupancy is rapidly nearing completion.

Judge Roger Loughran and wife of Hurley were among the county residents who attended the Eastern States antiques show in White Plains last week. The couple's son, Dr. Elbert Loughran, is now serving as a medical officer at the Dayton, Ohio, Air Force base.

Ed Finn was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country on Wednesday.

A pair of gray squirrels have made their appearance in the village center following an absence of several weeks. The squirrels, presumably scared out of the woods by the mob of deer hunters in these parts, are currently gorging themselves on maple shade tree buds. Blue jays, notoriously rapacious eaters, also hang out in the vicinity of the corner store and generally beat the squirrels to any bread crumbs thrown out by interested householders.

Mrs. W. Hraznek and son Billy of New York were here Friday in the course of a holiday visit to their summer home on the Wittenberg road at Mt. Tremper. Duane Winnie, veteran of army service in Korea, has terminated his employment as ironworker on the Downsville waterworks project for this year. Duane, who worked at his trade near Tampa, Fla., last winter, may elect to remain in Ashokan this season.

Bauer Is Elected

St. Louis, Dec. 1 (AP)—Dr. Louis H. Bauer of Hempstead, N. Y., yesterday was elected president of the American Medical Education Foundation, founded in 1950 to raise funds among doctors to support medical schools. Dr. Bauer is director-general of the World Medical Association and a past president of the American Medical Association. Dr. Bauer said doctors this year have contributed more than one million dollars to the foundation for a total of nearly $2,700,000 since 1950. Nearly $5,100,000 has been raised through the foundation and the National Fund for Medical Education which seeks donations from business, industry and laymen.

Minerals Discovered

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Dominican Republic's information center says that minerals containing uranium have been discovered in the West Indies republic. Announcements yesterday quoting the republic's mining service also said large deposits of asbestos and platinum have been found. The uranium find was called important, but no other details were given.

New York Telephone increased its rates by approximately 11 per cent of its annual revenue in 1950, and by approximately 4 per cent in 1952. Since then increases in long distance and teletype rates have added nearly 2 per cent to its revenue.

Milfred Planck, charged with entering the Weiss place at Ellen-ville and taking money, appeared for sentence under his plea of guilty to burglary. H. Edgar Timmerman appeared for Planck. A sentence of from 1½ to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison was imposed. Under the second count of the indictment, unlawful entry, Judge Cashin suspended imposition of any sentence.

William T. Cowans, also known as Cowens, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry and was given 68 days in the county jail, the time he has already served. Credit was given for the time served. A detainer is on file from the U. S. Army for Cowens and he will be returned to face army charges. Joseph Saccoman appeared for defendant. In the case of Thomas G. White, jointly indicted with Cowens, a similar plea was entered and White was given 68 days in jail and granted credit for the time already served. Seymour Werbalowsky appeared for White, who is married, and Judge Cashin directed White to get a job and support his family.

Elijah Garvin, Kingston, charged with forgery, second degree in two counts, entered a plea of guilty to forgery and he was sentenced to a term of from 1 to 2 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Joseph Saccoman appeared by assignment. Garvin, 22 years old, has been in difficulty before. Some time ago he was sent to Industry, paroled, and he violated that parole. Judge Cashin stated Garvin had been treated again as a Youthful Offender and was placed on probation but again violated that trust. This time he was sent to prison with no probation attached.

Worthington Pidgeon, charged with taking a motor vehicle of Bert Woodworth, faced a grand larceny, second degree, indictment. Louis G. Bruhn appeared for Pidgeon. A plea of guilty to petit larceny was entered. A letter was offered from the complainant requesting that since the car was returned with no damage done, that prosecution be dropped. The grand larceny count was dismissed, bail was exonerated and because of the attitude of the complainant Judge Cashin suspended imposition of any sentence on the larceny plea.

Raymond Slater entered a plea of guilty to Section 43 of the Penal Law. He had been indicted for violation of Section 403, Sub. 2, a morals charge. Louis G. Bruhn appeared for Slater. A six months jail sentence was imposed and suspended and Slater was placed on probation. Bail was exonerated and a second count of the indictment was dismissed.

George Slover, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry. T. Edgar Timmerman appeared for defendant. Timmerman asked the court to consider the fact that Slover had been under the influence of liquor and that the article taken was of small value, a box of cookies. He said Slover could not keep away from alcoholics and had been in difficulty before but there was no institution where alcoholics could be treated. He asked leniency. Judge Cashin classified the act of Slover "silly" and said he agreed with Timmerman that there was no provision in our penal system for treatment of alcoholics. He said he would try another plan and sentenced Slover to a year in jail and suspended execution of that sentence and placed him on probation. He directed Slover to report to the probation officer immediately for instructions and as one of the conditions of probation he directed Slover keep off liquor.

Jurors were excused for the term and court recessed until 10 o'clock Thursday. A civil action was taken up before the court without a jury. The action was brought by Earl A. Lounsbury and D. Shohel of Middletown to recover a balance due on television sets sold by Ray's Television Shop. Philip Slutsky appeared for plaintiffs and there was no defense. Judge Cashin held the case open for the submission of a certified copy of papers on file with the state after taking testimony on the plaintiff. There is a balance of $726.22 due.

Politics Assailed

Bible Does Not Say 'Spare The Rod and Spoil the Child'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some days ago I protested the spanking of a four-year-old boy who had hurt his little sister. An outraged reader charges me with writing psychological drivel. He writes, "You will never improve on the Bible's advice to parents: 'Spare the rod and spoil the child.'"

My reader is mistaken. The Bible does not give us any such silly advice at all. Three books of reference and a professor of church history have just confirmed my own impression that the Bible does not contain this injunction to parents. All I can find that remotely resembles it is Proverbs 13:24—"He that spareth the rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes."

That's a very different piece of advice. For this true Bible quotation makes the point of qualifying the kind of rod we are asked to use for the discipline of children.

It must be a rod that performs a "chastening" work.

The word "chastening" means to "purify from error or fault."

Now we can make sense of my objection to spanking the small boy who hurt his little sister.

His attack upon her was part of a general campaign of terrorization of her. He is jealous of her. That means that he is motivated constantly by a sense of inferiority and helplessness. Do we really think that spanking him for expressing it can purify him of his error of feeling?

If we do, we have never felt inferior or helpless. For if we have ever felt jealousy ourselves, we would know that physical attack upon us would merely increase our despair of ourselves.

The physical rod beating upon our bodies would not perform a "chastening" work at all.

What is needed by this small boy is not any physical rod, but enough of that love mentioned in the Proverbs to purify him of his sense of inferiority and helplessness.

Let me be understood. I am not against "chastening" rods. I would myself, for instance, spank a small boy who insisted on misbehaving out of belief that I was either too lazy or too scared to spank him. I would apply the rod to purify him of his error of belief about me.

But this was not this child's case. His mother did spank him. Her rod will not purify him of jealousy because you can't reach this error through the body.

We must stop crediting the Bible with this stupid old adage about "spoiling" the child. To do so is to discredit its wisdom and justice.

So far as I can find out, it was Mark Twain who has mistakenly ascribed this advice to the Bible. He had his virtues. Reverence was not among them. He was one of those "emancipated" agnostics so fashionable in the late 19th century.

Heart Specialist

Later McAlonan asked "how could he get us mixed up? Spalding was a little guy and I'm over six feet and weigh a lot more."

McAlonan said that the last time he had treated Sherback was in 1943. He said that he had received a letter from Dr. Henry Luce in 1944 asking about Sherback because he had been admitted to Eloise as a mental patient.

Dr. Luce was head of the consultation department at the hospital.

Sherback had mentioned the names of several doctors and others in the city health department that he intended to kill.

He said that there was a judge and an attorney he also wanted to get. He said he was made at all doctors because they "refused to give me a clean bill of health so I could get married eight years ago."

Police said Sherback was held on a murder charge.

Marriage Cult Leaders Will Get Sentences Dec. 7

Kingman, Ariz., Dec. 1 (AP)—The 27 purported leaders of the Short Creek multiple marriage cult will be sentenced Monday for conspiracy.

They pleaded guilty yesterday—just four months after a police force set up martial law in Short Creek, on the Arizona-Utah border, and rounded up the tiny community's men, women and children.

Charges of conspiracy were dropped against 69 other defendants, all but seven of whom are women.

After the raid charges of conspiracy to commit adultery, bigamy, open and notorious cohabitation, contributing to the delinquency of minors, statutory rape and marrying the spouse of another were filed against nearly all the adults.

The state yesterday withdrew the counts of contributing and statutory rape.

The 27 men could be imprisoned for as long as one year or forced to pay a $1,000 fine on each of the four counts. The sentences could be suspended.

State's attorneys indicated they believed that the women and their 162 children, now resettled in private homes throughout Arizona, had given up any thought of return to polygamous lives.

"To require these women to stand trial," said Paul La Prade, assistant attorney general, "would cause serious injustices and harm to . . . the many children involved."

"An analysis . . . leaves the compelling and inescapable conclusion that these mothers should be permitted to remain with their children at all costs to insure their future well-being."

Networks Refuse Time to Reds

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Three major networks have turned down requests from the Communist party and its organ, The Daily Worker, for radio and television time to answer Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

CBS, ABC and NBC announced their decisions last night.

The Communists had asked for free time after McCarthy a week ago tonight made references to The Daily Worker and Reds in general during the TV-radio talk carried by major networks and some stations.

McCarthy had obtained free time to reply to a speech broadcast the previous week by former President Harry S. Truman.

NBC, in announcing its action, said the requests from the Communist party and The Worker were turned down because "the public interest would not be served by granting time for this purpose."

A CBS spokesman said that network had made a similar reply.

The ABC reply was not disclosed.

Officials of other networks and stations involved could not be reached for comment.

Senate House Is Part of Calendar

Publication of the 1954 edition of popular historic American landmarks calendar, with 56 striking photographs of noted houses and other landmarks includes the Senate House; this city, in which was held the first Senate of New York state. The calendar is illustrated by photographs of famous houses and historic monuments throughout the country. The beautiful full-color cover is an early fall scene of the Wayside Inn at South Sudbury, Mass. An unusual feature of the calendar is its arrangements. The calendar pages back up to each other so that they can be removed at the end of the year, leaving a book of permanent interest. This calendar will also serve as a guide book for tourists, since most of the historic landmarks shown are open to the public. Many shrines are world famous, others are less well known but merit recognition. Among the landmarks included are: Daniel Webster Memorial near Franklin, N. H.; Philipse Castle at North Tarrytown; the Lincoln Room in the White House; The Hermitage at Nashville, Tenn.; the Myers house at Norfolk, Va.; The Old Custom House, Monterey, Calif.; The Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City; and the Old North Church in Boston. It is now on sale at the Senate House and is boxed ready for mailing.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Guild Fair Opens Christmas Season

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Celeste, the guardian angel of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, has alighted again for the third successive Christmas season atop the roof of the shop, heralding the opening of the Christmas Fair.

The Guild shop is once more transformed into a gold and silver glittering world of Christmas, stars and greens outside giving but a glimpse of the fine array of gifts to be found within.

Ornaments Catch Eye

Perhaps the most eye-catching feature this year are the sparkling Christmas ornaments, shining balls decorated with tiny seashells and brilliants, created by Mrs. Myron Hall. They are so decorative and finely detailed that they may be hung either on the Christmas tree or used with greens for a unique table center piece.

In the widely diversified ceramic originals are a group of high-styled salad bowls—some round, some shell shaped—with matching fork and spoon, as well as salad and dessert plates, by Terry. In the food and spice department there is a wonderful display of jams and jellies and an enticing item called "Conservative Zanzibar."

From the Stonecrop herb shop of Miss Anita Smith and Miss Alice Henderson are herbs of long-standing popularity with special combinations packed in gay Christmas baskets.

Included this year in the downstairs gallery are paintings by well-known Woodstock artists, among them Doris Lee, John Carlson, Frank Chase, Bruce Currie, Ethel Magafan, Mollie Higgins Smith, Howard Mandel, Florence Hubbard, Konrad Cramer, Richard Chambers, Elfriede Borkman, John Pike and others.

Large Gift Assortment

There is a large assortment of moderately priced gifts, large and small including attractive painted canisters, spice racks and chests, lamps and decorative boxes.

Both the clothing and doll sections are overflowing this year with bright warm mittens, scarves, caps and stoles, many of them enhanced with jeweled and metallic decorations. Dolls come complete with bassinet, wardrobe and equipment, and in the small "zoo" there are whimsical little animals to catch your child's fancy.

On the book shelves are new and old favorites by Woodstock authors, and illustrators. This year a bright addition is Frances Rogers' new book, Fire Engine Boy.

One shelf near the entrance is devoted entirely to "gifts for men" with a dazzling assortment of ties, cigarette boxes and assorted party equipment for the male host.

There's jewelry to adorn those who best wear the small delicate pieces ranging to the pieces created for lucky girls who can wear the fascinating new large chunky modern pieces inspired by uncut stones and odd shaped metal designs.

Last but not least there is the always to be found finely woven pieces, copper work, trays and unusual Christmas cards.

Other activities at the school during the Christmas season, sponsored by the P-T-A, will be planned and discussed at the meeting.

How does the Stock Exchange help investors?

Please don't let anyone tell you that the Stock Exchange is "like a store." Who ever heard of a store where customers buy and sell from each other—but never see each other? And the store doesn't set prices, or own any merchandise, just supervises the buying and selling?

Now you can see where the Stock Exchange gets its name. It's a market where people, often thousands of miles apart, exchange stock for cash, or cash for stock, through brokers. Each day the prices that people paid other people for their shares are published for all to see.

That's not all. Making it easy for people to own shares in America's great corporations is only part of the job.

What else? Well, for one thing, the New York Stock Exchange sets rigid requirements which a corporation must meet at the time its shares are admitted to this market. Only one corporation in 470 has met those requirements. Companies must first show successful management, that they are widely owned, and have earned at least a million dollars in the year before admission.

So important are the companies which do get listed on this Exchange that last year they distributed to their share owners two-thirds of the nation's dividends. These 1,100 companies produce half of all goods made and employ more than eleven million people.

To help you decide which companies meet your investment requirements, and to handle your orders, member firms of the New York Stock Exchange have offices in this and over four hundred other cities. Their experience is yours for the asking.

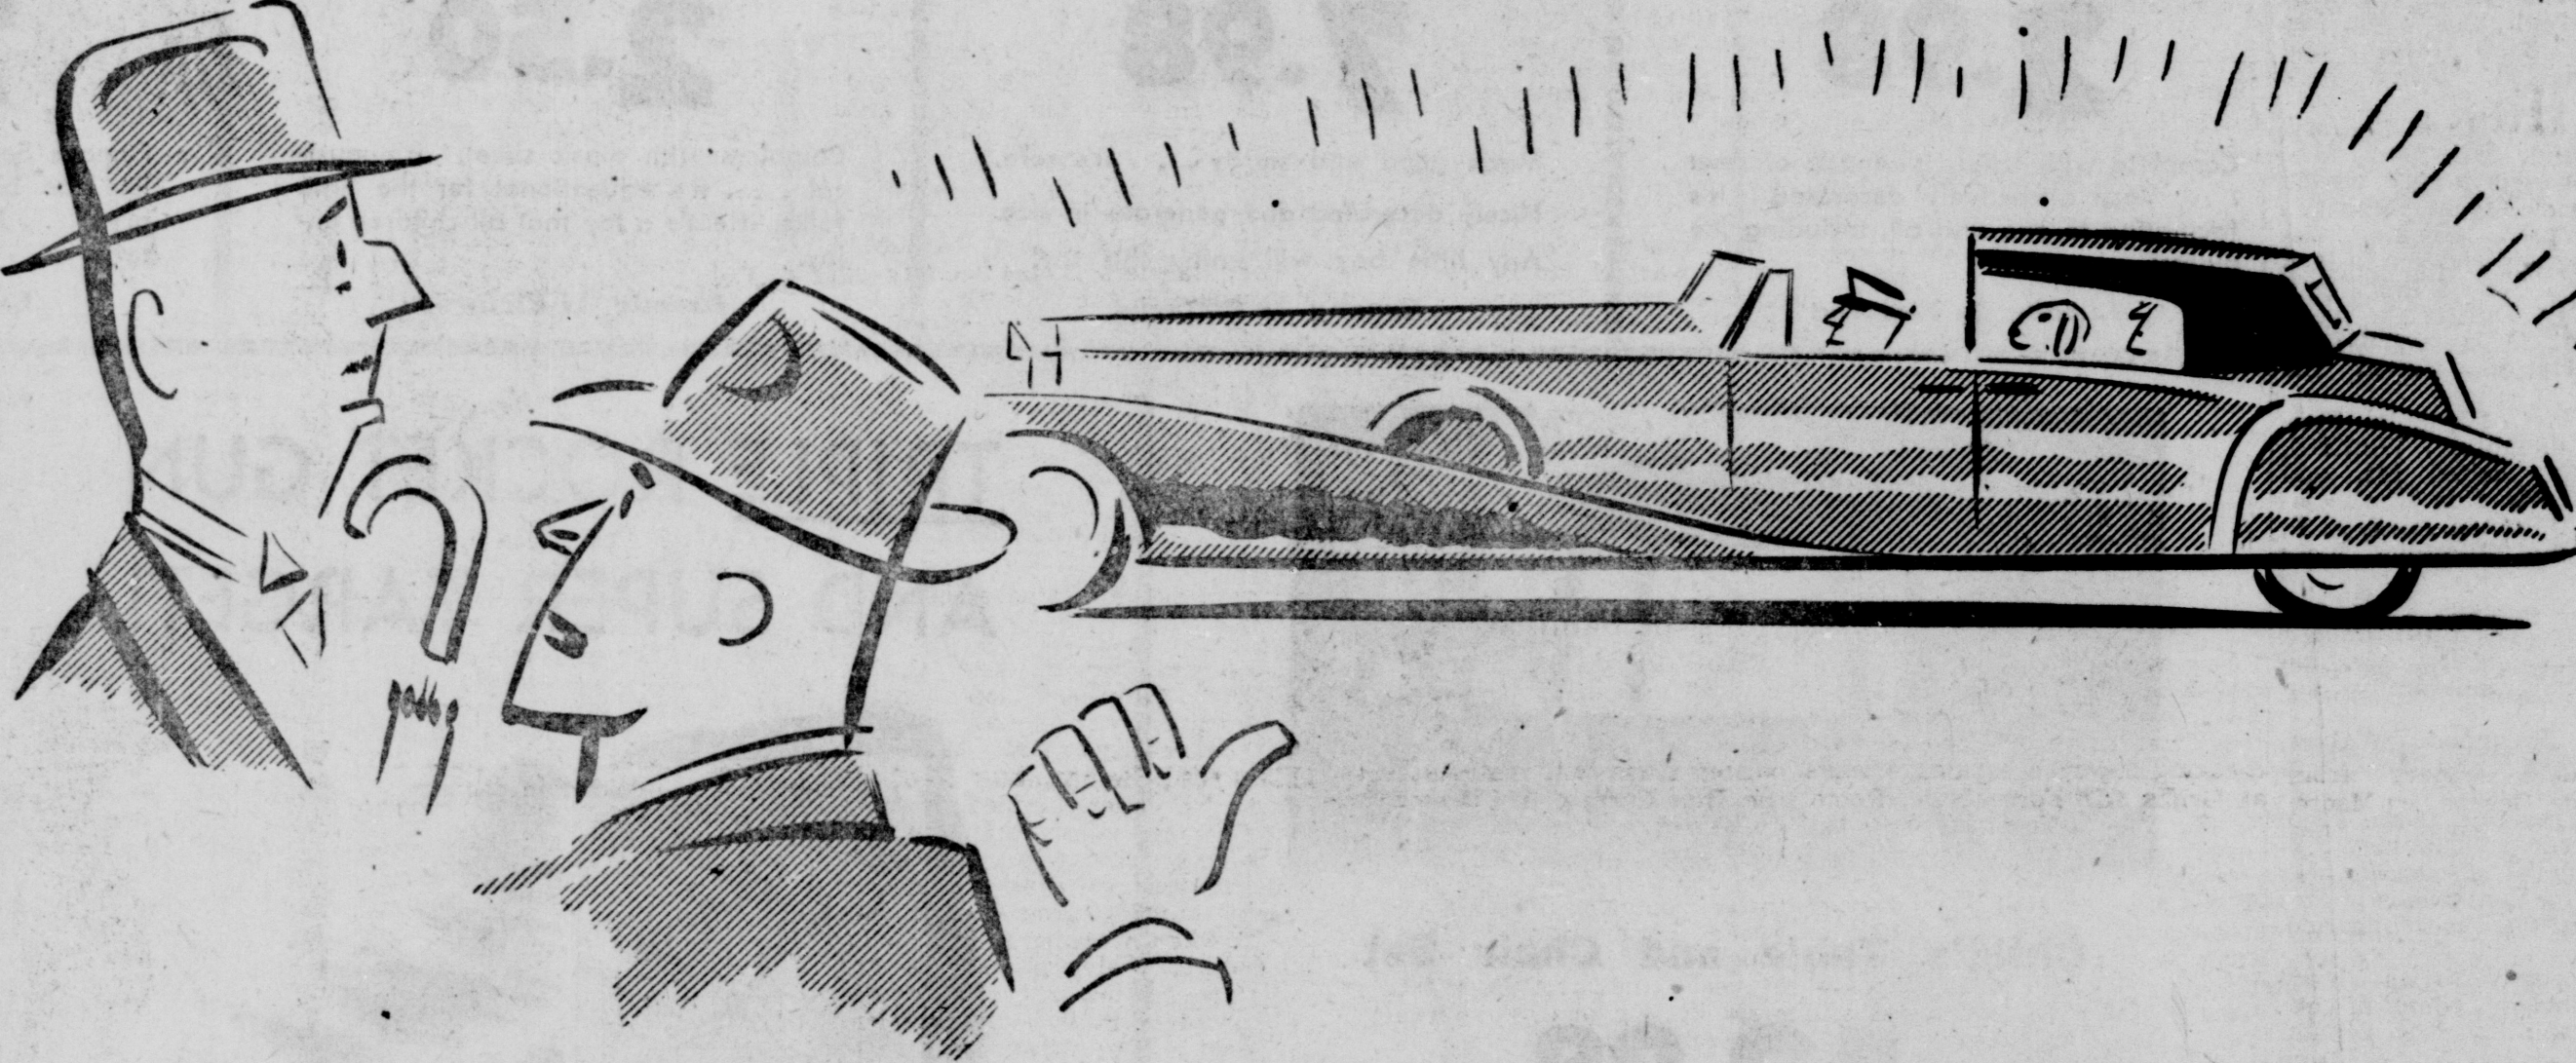

THE EXCHANGE Magazine, official publication of the Exchange

A good way to keep informed. How's business? Which industries are growing? What are the facts about dividends? Easy-to-read, pocket-sized, it keeps you on top of basic investment news. For 12 issues, send $1 to THE EXCHANGE Magazine, 20 Broad Street, New York 5, New York.

Eight Umbrellas
Herman Levin, Broadway producer and bon vivant, told me an amusing story the other night, and I'm passing it along on the off-chance that no one has bent your ear with it.

One blustery November morning in Darien, Conn., George Wentworth, Vice-president of a New York bank, put on his Brooks Brothers charcoal gray suit, his Brooks Brothers foulard tie and his Brooks Brothers homburg, then looked out his Libby-Owens window.

"It's drizzling," he said to his wife. "Is there an umbrella handy?"

"I was waiting for you to say that," said Mrs. Wentworth. "It gives me a chance to make an announcement."

The banker looked nervously at his Brooks Brothers watch. "If it's about muscular dystrophy," he said, "don't bother, my dear. I sent them a check last week."

"It's not about muscular dystrophy," said his wife. "It's about umbrellas. Do you realize, George Wentworth, that two years ago we had eight umbrellas in this house and now there's only one?"

"Been meaning to do something about those blasted mice," said Mr. Wentworth. "Never realized, though, the little beggars ate umbrellas."

"The mice don't eat our umbrellas," said Mrs. Wentworth. "You do. You take them to the office and you don't bring them back. Well, here's our eighth and last umbrella. If you forget this one, next time it rains you'll have to use the Wall Street Journal."

"I'll bring the whole lot of them back tonight," said Mr. Wentworth. "I promise."

That afternoon he lunched at the Bankers Club, and on his way out he saw his umbrella in the rack next to the coat room. "Holy smoke," he said. "I almost left it. My missus wouldn't have liked that at all."

But as he reached for the umbrella, he felt a polite but firm tap on his shoulder.

"Pardon me," said a man who was wearing a De Pinna plaid bow tie, "but that happens to be my umbrella."

"I'm afraid you're mistaken," said Wentworth. "It's my umbrella."

"I wouldn't have taken you for an umbrella thief," said the man with the bow tie. "You look like a Princeton man."

"Harvard," said Wentworth stiffly.

"My dear fellow," said Bow Tie, "even a Harvard man doesn't have to steal to make a living in this country. There are lots of openings for clean-cut American types."

Mr. Wentworth knew when he was licked. "Oh, very well," he said. "If you're going to be small about it, keep the umbrella."

When he got back to his office, he discovered, to his horror, that his umbrella was in a corner next to the seven others—he hadn't taken it to lunch after all.

At five, thanks to an excellent memory and a telephone call from his wife at 4:30, Mr. Wentworth tied the eight umbrellas together with a piece of twine and caught the 5:32 to Darien.

A few minutes after the train pulled out, he looked up from his evening paper. He had the uncomfortable feeling that someone was looking fixedly at him.

It was the man with the De Pinna bow tie, and there was a nasty smile on his face as he eyed the eight umbrellas.

"I see you had a pretty good day," he said.

enue Service, won convictions against two men.

At about the same time, he was replaced by a Republican. Fritchey conceded last night the replacement may not have been connected with the case. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.) said the change had been in the works for some time. A Justice Department spokesman said it was part of a campaign to replace Truman Administration holdovers.

Fritchey also said it was "not consistent with the crusading promises" of Brownell to fail to heed a call for help in an investigation of racketeering in St. Louis. He suggested that the Senate Judiciary Committee might want to look into what he termed an unanswered call for "more help and more support" from Federal Judge George H. Moore.

The judiciary committee has announced plans for hearings, starting Dec. 12, on the Denver jury tampering case.

The internal security subcommittee on which Welker serves has scheduled public questioning tomorrow of William Ludwig Ullmann, a former aide to White.

Ullmann, testifying before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee in another recent inquiry, refused to answer questions about alleged Communist spy activities. He said the answers might tend to incriminate him.

An FBI report dated in November 1945 and already made public in part, has named Ullmann as a suspected member of an espionage ring. Ullmann had been a Treasury Department aide to White, and also had been White's aide at the Bretton Woods international monetary conference in 1944. White died in 1948.

Leaks Are Probed

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A spokesman for the U. S. Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee says its probes are checking reported espionage leaks at Griffis Air Force Base, Rome, N. Y. The spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said the inquiry concerns radar work at the base. He said a number of investigators are working out of Rome and Syracuse. No further details were given by the spokesman, who said the probe was still in the developing stage.

Locker Is Rifled

More than $50 worth of personal property belonging to Richard Stewart of 716 Broadway was removed from Stewart's locker at the YMCA about 8 p. m. yesterday, according to a notation on the city police blotter. Stewart reported he lost a dollar bill, some cigarettes and a watch valued at $50. He said he came on two men about 20 years of age rifling his locker and that they fled. One was wearing a fedora and the other a cap, he said.

Egypt Sends Mission

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 1 (AP)—Egypt sent off a 10-man mission for an extensive tour of the Soviet Union and its satellites today to bolster trade with nations behind the Iron Curtain. Dr. Fuad Shalabi, head of the Foreign Ministry's Economics Department, said the object of the tour was "to foster commercial exchanges between Egypt and Eastern Europe, especially regarding supplies of heavy industrial machinery to step up Egypt's current industrialization drive."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I am asked about arrowheads. As a rule in such cases I refer them directly to Principal R. H. Van Valkenburgh of School 4 who is known for his collections and exhibitions along these lines. The following is an item some one cut out and gave to Harry L. Edson who in turn gave it to me. It is from an Albany newspaper column called The Roving Reporter by Tip Roseberry. It reads in part: A hobby among farmers in the vicinity of Coxsackie, is the collecting of Indian arrowheads. This is because they can't plow their fields without coming across them. The reason being, Flint Mine Hill, otherwise known as Mineberg Hill, or Indian Hill. It is a mile long ridge running north and south between Route 9W and the Hudson river, near the New York Vocational Institution, so no doubt many Kingstonians have seen that ground.

Roseberry writes, that "one of the best arrowhead collections in the neighborhood is that of Ludwig Kleeberger, of Coxsackie Flats road. He has about 60 of the finest specimens culled from a much larger number of imperfect or damaged artifacts. Kleeberger did not know he was acquiring a happy hunting ground of Indian relics when he came up from Long Island, 12 years ago, and bought the farm he now works, which has now made him an arrowhead enthusiast." For those who care to go deeper into the arrowhead hobby, Dr. Arthur C. Parker, former state archeologist and Indian expert, who conducted the first scientific expedition of the site in the early 1920's declared Flint Mine Hill to be literally a mountain of arrowheads." He discovered three large quarries and 200 smaller flint-pits. A vast dumping ground for refuse of the mining was nearby, with material enough for hundreds of train loads. Thousands of worn hammer stones, (tools used in manufacturing the weapons) were picked up. It was further stated, that is seems, this Hill had a wide fame among other Indian tribes than local ones, as some of the arrowheads are not of native stone. It seems that Indians brought their own raw material from other parts to have processed at Coxsackie.

After seeing Henry Singer's sale notice in the newspaper, (60 Broadway) and his wanting 1913 pennies for which he offered 50 cents in trade, as that was the year they started business, folks asked me if that was an Indian head penny. I did not know either, so I asked Singer and he showed me some of the 1913 Lincoln pennies brought in by his customers.

Also noticed in Dr. Allan J. Segal's window at 42 Broadway, former optometrist's office of Dr. S. Stern, a good copy of an Ulster County Gazette, of January 4, 1800. It is in a double glass frame and can be easily inspected by window shoppers. It is said some 77 copies of that paper have been made since it was originated by Samuel Freer, the publisher right here in Kingston. The original of this copy became famous because it described George Washington's funeral. It is said by some collectors that the original is worth about $3,000. One of the genuine originals can be found at the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. the copy of which is in Dr. Segal's window.

Reports Hit-Run Driver

Earl O. Terwilliger of Ulster Park reported to city police at 10 p. m. yesterday that while his sedan was parked on John street in front of the John Street Barber Shop yesterday morning an unknown vehicle had struck the right rear fender causing considerable damage.

Fined on Traffic Count

George Johnson, 21, of 50 Downs street, who was arrested by Officers Harold Bowers and John W. Frasch at 3:40 a. m. today on a charge of driving without an operator's license, was fined $10 or 10 days in City Court this morning by Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The Sudan is about the size of the United States east of the Mississippi river.

Allied Prisoners

tion sites requested. The Communists used up to three men in each explanation tent, but the repatriation commission allows the allies only five at any one time.

May Face Ridicule

These South Koreans will face the nerve-racking job of making calm, persuasive, dignified talks to prisoners undoubtedly primed by Red leaders to ridicule and vilify them.

Some of the prisoners are known to be dedicated Communists who will never return.

When the Communists began their own talks last Oct. 15, their explainers screamed at, spat upon, kicked, hit with flying chairs and called every obscene word in the Chinese and Korean languages.

The Communist defeat is believed back of the Red's apparent withdrawal from further explanations.

Meanwhile, allied and Red negotiators working on plans for a Korean political conference were in recess until 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday EST), mulling over Monday's proposals for each side.

In a Lady's Defense

By FRANK TRIPP

Kids have passed out trying to smoke ever since they discovered that corn silk would hold fire between puffs. They "halved butts" way back when the cigarette was a disreputable character.

There seemed to be a lot of runtish, shriveled old men around our neighborhood when The Lady put me out cold, in our first flirtation. That's how I'd grow to look if I smoked, my mother told me.

It wasn't the best sales talk. My dad, who smoked like a chimney, was a powerful man, and I decided to be bigger than most of mom's horrible examples.

So I cheated. It was after The Lady had floored me, best three out of five, that I decided the conquest belonged to males with hair on their lips. Thus I was shoving before The Lady and I had any really amorous dates. Maybe that's how I reached my six feet and 180; anyway mom said so.

WHEN I STARTED to smoke, pop gave me a pipe, with the fatherly words common in those pre-cigarette days: "A pipe or a cigar, but if I ever catch you smoking a cigarette I'll knock you into the middle of next week!" which I knew him still able to do. The threat restrained me for years; until cigarettes became respectable. Staid men, and gentle women began to smoke them. Old ladies laid down their corncobs and clays and turned to them. Even old-timers switched—but never my dad.

That's where the present generations picked up the story: the claims, the counterclaims—and libel of the convenient little tag which has become as common as bread or salt. It had a rough voyage; yet a cigarette is but tobacco in a handy package.

THERE IS a solace in tobacco that surpasses a non-smoker's understanding. It has kept worried men calm, desperate men restrained, impetuous men bearable—and women too.

It was the savages' symbol of friendliness and peace. It has steadied civilized nerves about to crack; induced straight thought, sound judgment; borned classics of art, music and literature. It is a comforter of the lonely, sedative to the harried, elixir to the genius.

It can be abused, of course, as can porterhouse, sugar—and sunshine.

MEN HAVE risked their lives to get tobacco, as they have to get gems and gold, and women, Kipling risked his reputation when he wrote, "A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

All would not go along with Kipling, but Vice President Tom Marshall couldn't say a truer thing if alive today than his only remembered pronouncement: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar"—unless it be "a good five-cent nickel," F.P.A. amended.

These men spoke in days when the cigar was king; when Galsworthy wrote: "By the cigars they smoke and the composers they love, ye shall know the textures of men's souls."

BY NOW you know that I have a lady friend, and maybe wonder, with all that's being said for her, why this outburst.

Well, what is being said for her? Seems to me she needs friends. Friends who know her guile and would keep her away from the young and fools unfit to fondle her; friends who wonder if The Lady is being driven into a fight for her life.

Like the over-zealous friends of the grape and the hop talked themselves into a 13-year pestilence.

A lady's real friends don't airway her faults and make people fear her. Or flaunt her as the "evil woman" in so many men's lives.

All don't have my luck. Fanny says that, but for my affair with Lady Nicotine, I wouldn't be fit to live with.

Besides I don't like to hear hired help run down my girl friends.

Rebuilds Human Derelicts

Only three men have ever been awarded the title "Chicagoan of the Year" by the Junior Association of Commerce in the "Windy City." The honor is bestowed upon men whose work has most benefited the city, and one of the men to receive it is Captain Thomas Crocker of The Salvation Army. Head of the Harbor Light center on Chicago's "skid row," Captain Crocker was chosen for his phenomenal record in rehabilitating human derelicts in that part of the city.

What Name, Please?

North Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Postmaster O. W. Neely received a letter from a man in California trying to locate a friend. The Californian took a page to say, among other things, that letters had been returned, etc. Neely says he can't be of much help. Nowhere in the letter did the writer mention a name.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As we get into the final weeks of the year, economic predictions will be even more numerous than they have been recently—and heaven knows there has been a steady flow of forecasts in the past three months since the business indexes have reflected a hesitation in the boom.

One of the most intriguing aspects of economics—even to the layman—is the constant search for analytical methods which will accurately foretell the business weather some months (or more) in advance. Economists and statisticians have devised countless thermometers that give accurate readings of today's business conditions; but they are still seeking a barometer, which can be depended upon to give an insight into coming probabilities.

From the Ruminator's voluminous accumulation of data and opinions—in order to arrive at contrary viewpoints—he has become more or less familiar with the various economic indicators that are followed by economists, institutions, and government bureaus. Dr. Burns, for example, who is acting as the President's closest economic adviser, maintains many graphs and studies that were worked out and developed by the National Bureau of Economic Research (which organization he formerly headed). Other organizations follow these same indicators and many others which they have originated.

Indicators of this kind have been broken down into those which are "leaders" (turn down or up prior to general trends), those which are "roughly coincident", and those that lag behind.

However, these indicators are not considered to be wholly reliable. What seems to upset all calculations is the factor we might describe by saying "the hindsight upsets the foresight." What I mean by this is that current economic conditions are always at variance with "current" conditions at similar periods in other economic cycles.

I seem to be heaping complexity upon confusion here. But if you think about it a moment you will see what I mean. Every economic cycle varies in some degrees from other cycles. They never revolve or fluctuate in just the same pattern. Booms vary and depressions vary. A boom at one time is followed by a resting period, or a slight recession, after which the boom goes on. At another time, a boom is followed by credit strains which lead into a severe depression. At other times, totally extraneous developments such as wars or unlooked-for events—alter the so-called normal stages of the cycle.

Similarly with depressions. At one time, business conditions may recover steadily, while at another the recovery will drag out and make false starts.

The Ruminator is reviewing the problems of economic forecasting in order that we may have in mind the short-comings as we enter the "season of predictions."

Also, I believe the short-comings of orthodox economic analyses and forecasts are an argument for the adoption of the theory of contrary opinion as a check on published predictions—and to prevent one from being carried away by generalized opinions and propaganda.

As you check back on "annual predictions" you find that the composite forecasts frequently are off the track as time moves forward. A year ago, for example, predictions were heavily weighted on the gloom side. "The boom is tired and is winding up. A recession (or worse) lies before us." This expresses the general thoughts, although many predictions were far more bearish. What happened, everybody knows, 1953 has been a record year, measured by the gross national product, incomes, and so on.

It appears fairly safe to guess that this season's predictions will again be pretty well loaded on the "down" side. Here and there a voice will be heard which will be optimistic, but I rather think the majority opinion will be pessimistic if not downright sour. However, we'll have to measure the opinions and predictions later, when our papers and magazines are full of them.

As of this moment, this writer's contrary viewpoint is quite cheerful, because of the weight of current recessionary sentiment. If general opinions do not shift much from the prevailing attitude the contrary outlook is for another boom year, taking the year as a whole without regard to seasonal drifts and spurts.

Snails can go without food for four months by living on reserves in their tissues.

New Jersey Plans To Improve Route

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—The state plans improving portions of northern New Jersey Rt. 17, which has been tagged "Butcher Boulevard" by an insurance company official.

Paul H. Blaisdell of Ridgewood, public safety director of the association of casualty and surety companies, described Rt. 17 last night as "one of the most dangerous highways in the United States."

He criticized the busy highway in a speech at Burlington before the Burlington County Safety Council. The road, which runs from the New York state line through Bergen county into the west Hudson area, is "an engineering atrocity" along which law enforcement has broken down, Blaisdell said.

Rt. 17, he added, is a "contradiction of no control at intersections and an amazing collection of traffic lights blinking like fireflies until a driver is groggy from trying to decide whether to go or stop."

There's only one way to "tame traffic" on Rt. 17, Blaisdell said. That is to "slow it down to a point where recovering from a dangerous situation has an equal chance with the hand of death." From Trenton came this comment by state highway engineer Edward Kilpatrick:

"We are fully aware of the fact that Rt. 17 is not a modern highway. For this reason we are converting the highly dangerous three-lane into a six-lane divided highway from the New York state line to the Ramapo River next year."

In addition, Kilpatrick said, it is planned to continue improvement of the highway in succeeding years. Many of the traffic lights are to be eliminated through the use of overpasses and underpasses, he said.

Fire Is Portable

Springfield, Mo. (AP)—Larry Emery couldn't wait for the firemen. Told that his car was on fire, he sprinted to a nearby parking lot, started his car and drove it two blocks to the fire station. Firemen put out the front seat blaze with a portable extinguisher.

Community Chorus In Saugerties Program

The actual origin of caroling as a part of the Christmas celebration is unknown. Several countries have claimed to be the birthplace of this custom. It is from the European countries that most of our carols come, and several of these will be a part of the Christmas Carol Program to be given by the Catskill-Hudson Community Chorus in the Saugerties Reformed Church, Sunday Dec. 13 at 4 p. m. with subsequent concerts in Catskill and Hudson.

That caroling existed in Germany in the 15th century is evident for Martin Luther wrote that when Christmas was celebrated he went with others from house to house and village to village singing Christmas carols in four-part harmony. From Germany we get a great wealth of Christmas songs.

Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming, one of the best known Christmas carols of today, is a 16th century melody harmonized by Michael Praetorius who was famous for his compositions and his collection of 1244 hymns and songs in the early 17th century. In this selection the rose, as the most beautiful of early flowers, is used as a symbol of Christ. The Community Chorus will sing the English version of this song by Theodore Baker.

Christ was born on Christmas Day is another traditional German carol. Although this is a cradle song, it is gay and lively with parts still sung in Latin as were the first carols sung.

Caroling is of very early origin in France with French carols known as Noels. Noel Nouvelet is a French Christmas carol arranged by Ruby Shaw—a beautiful number in which the "wild bells ring out the message true."

The Three Kings, country unknown, is an English arrangement by Healey Willan and tells the story of the Three Wise Men in their search for the Christ Child. In the northern countries of Europe it is traditional to observe Christmas as a strictly religious day. The people rise before dawn and go to Church. This tradition is the theme of Rise Up Early, based on a Slovak Christmas Carol, which gayly urges the people to "Come, rise up early in the morning to tell the glad news."

To keep alive this heritage of Christmas carols from all nations is the aim of the Catskill-Hudson

Wittenberg Man's Marriage Announced

Woodstock, Dec. 1.—Miss Harriet Guttman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guttman, of New York, was married to Herbert Chiet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ihymen E. Chiet of Wittenberg and Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon. The ceremony, which took place at the Sherry Netherlands Hotel, New York, was performed by Rabbi Newman, and was followed by a reception for 175 guests.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a cathedral train. Her veil was attached to a coronet of crystals and pearls. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. Chiet returned recently from duty in Korea and is now associated with his father in their doll manufacturing firm in New York.

After the reception the couple left for a trip to Nassau.

The wedding was attended by a group of Woodstockers, among them Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Crane of Bearsville.

The first concert will be at Manhattan College, December 12, and the second at St. Elizabeth's, Convent Station, N. J., December 14.

Community Chorus. Its program will give the people of that area an opportunity to become familiar with some of these centuries-old carols and to join with others in the celebration of Christmas 1953.

Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. Becker, who was a blacksmith with the New York Central Railroad for 45 years, retired October 1, 1952. The Beckers have two sons, James and Louis. The James Beckers have two children, James Jr., 7, and Patricia, 9. The Louis Beckers are parents of three children, Arlene Louise, 4, Louis Edward, 2 and Mary Lou, aged 1 year. (Freeman photo)

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST
(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

Embarrassed By Generosity
A letter tells me: "I have a friend who continually buys me expensive presents. She is a newcomer in our town and I have invited her to my house quite often. I suppose she appreciates my friendliness so much that she buys me these presents in return. I get upset every time I receive one, because I cannot possibly give her such expensive presents in return. How can I tell her that I do not want her to do this, without hurting her feelings?"

Tell her the truth in a very earnest tone, that she is much too generous and that it is embarrassing to you.

An Uncomfortable Situation
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a daily commuter and I enjoy reading the newspaper or a book on my way to and from the office. Quite often someone I know only casually sits beside me on the train and after commenting on the weather, or some such general subject, we really have nothing to talk about. Could I be considered rude if I opened my book or newspaper and started to read after greeting her, or must I try to make conversation?

Answer: If possible, you should sit next to someone you don't know. Should you find yourself seated next to an acquaintance, you could offer to share part of your paper with her. Whether you can pick up your book or not depends upon whether your companion has something to say to you. If your conversation comes to an end and there is a lull, you could say, "Do you mind if I read my book?"

Engagement Ring For Christmas
Dear Mrs. Post: May an engagement ring be given as a Christmas present? Someone told me that it was not proper and I would like your opinion on this as I had intended to buy one for my fiancée for Christmas.

Answer: It may be the big present—certainly. But it should be accompanied with something else, no matter how trifling.

Is it good manners to break crackers into soup? How should baked potato be eaten? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but answers to these questions are included in leaflet E-16. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to Dept. E. P. c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Brilliant Young Piano Soloist

THEODORE LETTVIN

Lettvin to Be Soloist With Philharmonic In Community Concert

The youthful career of the brilliant American pianist Theodore Lettvin, who will appear as piano soloist with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra Saturday, 8:30 p. m., in Kingston High School for the Community Concert Association, shows fulfillment of a prediction made by the late Frederick Stock when Lettvin made his orchestral bow at the age of twelve with the Chicago Symphony under that maestro's baton, that he would have a great future on the concert stage.

At the age of 15 he won a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, where he studied for the following seven years with the world-renowned artist, Rudolf Serkin. His career was interrupted for service with the United States Navy during World War 2.

He has since been the recipient of many awards among them the Naumburg and Michaels Memorial Awards. In the summer of 1952 following an extensive tour of Europe and North Africa, he was leading prizewinner of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium International Music Competition, the world's foremost piano contest.

This season Lettvin is on a four-month tour of the United States and Canada and will be heard as soloist with the Cleveland, Cincinnati and Buffalo Orchestras.

Following his Town Hall recital last winter Olin Downes of the New York Times said, "To say that virtuosos spirit and a formidable technique are Mr. Lettvin's only assets would be misleading. He not only has thundering power and lightning speed, on occasion, he also has control, not only of fingers, but of tone."

New York Herald Tribune reported, "His articulation borders on perfection... technical problems seem non-existent for him."

He will play Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2 in C Minor for the Piano and Orchestra with the Buffalo orchestra in the Kingston concert.

Optometric Society Hears of New Lenses

An instructive lecture on corrective curve ophthalmic lenses by three representatives of the Titmus Optical Company of Petersburg, Va., was given for the Hudson Valley Optometric Society at a meeting held at the Pine Tree Inn, Middlehope.

Turner Veith, the eastern representative, gave the history of the company while Glenn Wooters and George Thompson, both of the Titmus Optical Company's Research Department, discussed the new corrected curve lens that the company has developed in the past three years, and its advantages. It was pointed out that the corrected curve lens eliminates, down to a very negligible percentage, errors of power and marginal astigmatism found in uncorrected lenses, which cause blur in looking through the lens edge. This type of lens, with the corrected curve, gives clear vision not only through the center but through the edge of the lens as well.

Tuesday evening, the Hudson Valley Optometric Society will hold a legislative meeting. At that time, the society hopes to have Lee E. Mailer, majority leader of the state Assembly, Senator Ernest Hatfield, chairman of the committee on Labor and Management, and Assemblyman Robert W. Pomeroy.

Guests of the November 29 meeting were: Lou Shatz of the Shatz Optical Company and Sheldon Shatz, Optometric Student of the Chicago Optometry College.

Those members of the society attending were: Allan Segal, S. Rudisch and Harry R. LeFever, Jr. of Kingston; D. Pearlberg, P. Moselle, H. Marshall, and C. Triller of Poughkeepsie; D. E. Fitzgerald, A. Hoffman, W. Dunphy of Newburgh; R. Frankel, A. Zinney of Beacon; R. Blackman of

Home Bureau County Bureau Meeting

The executive committee of the Ulster County Home Bureau will meet on Thursday at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Hall at 9:30 a. m. for their regular monthly meeting.

The members of executive committees of Dutchess, Greene, Columbia, Orange and Sullivan will join the committee at 11:30 a. m. for a joint meeting with Miss Vera Caulum, State Leader of Home Demonstration Agents from the New York State College of Home Economics.

Ladies of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Hall will serve dessert and coffee.

Cranberry Bargain
Shiny, red cranberries from New Jersey, Long Island and Massachusetts are on display at many grocery stores. This year's crop promises to be a record one.

According to the Ulster County Home Bureau, the best berries are firm, bright and well colored. They should be kept cool until they are used. From one pound of berries you will get about 12 servings of 1/4 cup of cooked sauce.

Why not take advantage of this plentiful crop and make some cranberry sauce or cranberry relish.

Milk Best Food Buy
According to the Ulster County Home Bureau, milk remains one of our best food buys in terms of food value.

Evaporated milk is similar to whole milk when an equal amount of water is added to the evaporated milk. Skim milk and non-fat dry milk contain about as much calcium, protein, riboflavin, and thiamine as fresh whole milk. If you are trying to lose, you'll be interested to know that skim and dry milk contain half as many calories as fresh whole milk. Since the butter fat is removed from skim milk and non-fat milk solids, they are low in vitamin A. This may be had through other economical foods.

Every person should have at least 3 glasses of milk a day—children more. That means a family of four needs 21 quarts of fluid milk or its equivalent each week.

Kerhonkson Unit

Kerhonkson Home Bureau Unit will meet Wednesday evening, Dec. 9, at the home of Mrs. G. M. Carr at 6:30 p. m. There will be a covered dish supper, as a prelude to the annual Christmas party which is scheduled as the evening's program. Mrs. Roy Wynkoop, area instructor in basketry will be a guest of the unit. The first lesson may be scheduled early in January. All members are urged to be present at the party.

Rose Schatzel Rolls 691 Series in Women's Major League

Sets Records With 229-247-215; Pete Nagy Cracks 278-658 in Minor

A 7-10 split in the 30th frame kept Rose Schatzel, the undisputed bowling Queen of the Hudson Valley, out of the "700" bracket in last night's Women's Major League action at the Bowlodrome.

Mrs. Schatzel, firing one of the top triples of her career, needed only a spare to move into the coveted "700" circle when she came up for the final frame.

Behind her were slams of 229 and 247. Her first ball rolled smoothly down the planks but at the last second dipped slightly too "heavy" and when the maples were cleared off the deck there stood the 7-10 taunting and frustrating.

Her 691 enabled Mrs. Schatzel to win last night's high score honors by a wide margin. Nellie Alverson's 230-180-166-576, normally good enough to pace any woman's league, had to settle for a distant second last night. The 247 and 691 were, of course, new league records.

Pete Nagy of the City Minor League furnished the men's heroics with a 658 series on solos of 214, 278 and 166. The 278 is a new league record. It was one of the best, if not the highest, series of his ten-pin career.

Nagy's heavy pinning carried the Hutton Brick squad to a pair of new team standards, with 974 and 2849.

Mildred Dunn's 222
Mildred Dunn fired high solo of 222 in the Matinee Club where Eleanor Singer continued to dominate the triple department with 186-177-170-533.

Frances Perry won it all in the Women's Junior Major with 142-131-169-442.

Honors were split in the men's Junior Major and Independent wheels. Angelo Corrado had 234 and Ernie Bartroff 156-223-205-584 in the Junior Major. Milt Cole Sr. soloed 248 and Frank Bruno tripled 191-217-204-612 in the Independent.

Misaki Raps 608
Joe Misaki and Pete Fabiano both slammed "600" triples in the City Minor which produced 29 scores of 502 or better.

Misaki fashioned 221-179-208-608 and Fabiano finished with 207-187-209-603. Joe Ausanio topped 214-566, Mike Levy 209-560, Ed Koskie 555, J. SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Tough realist that he is, Coach Bill Burke was one of the few who would not minimize the possibility of stout Newburgh Academy resistance against Kingston on Turkey Day.

Kingston won 14-0 but many thought the victory did not sufficiently avenge the drubbings of two previous years. Maybe so, but the Maroon won the game.

That was the important thing. The Burkemen's attack of fumbleitis was inspired just as much by over-eagerness on the part of the Kingston players as it was by hard hitting Goldback linemen. Burke did not approach the contest with a false sense on security. He expected a hard battle and got it.

The victory, incidentally, was the 45th by a Burke-coached squad since KHS decided they couldn't beat Burke at Highland High and invited him to join us. That was back in 1946.

Since his arrival at Burke Hill, Kingston has never had a losing season. The weird 1947 campaign saw the Maroon struggle through four ties (three by 0-0), two wins and one loss. 1951 was another lean year with 5 victories and 3 setbacks.

The top year was 1950 when Kingston won seven and tied one, a scoreless duel with Highland. The record was 7-1 in 1948 and 1949. Port Jervis followers who are clamoring for Port's departure should remember 1948. The KHS powerhouse rolled up 232 points against 40 for the opposition that year and won seven games but the tri-staters managed to pull the upset of the decade, 13-6, after having been scuttled 27-0 on their own field.

In 61 games over an eight-year span, Burke shows 45 wins, 10 losses, and 6 ties. During that period the Maroons have averaged at least three touchdowns a game, while racking up 1019 points to 472 for the opposition.

Kingston has won three DUSO titles and shared one which gives Bill a 50th batting average in conference championships among five teams. Definitely better than average.

These two tables will give you an idea of Kingston's success on the gridiron since the New England-born mentor was inducted the tranquility of Highland for the hurly-burly of Kingston.

• This and Data:

Highland spoiled Burke's "homecoming" in 1946 by a 27-13 score and then didn't register a single point against Kingston until this year's contest. Highest Kingston score under Burke was a 48-7 romp over Oneonta in 1952. They said the man was brought here to beat Newburgh and Highland. Against the Goldbacks he is 9 wins, 3 losses and a tie. Poughkeepsie used Kingston as a football doormat for many years but since 1948, the Maroons are 4-2 over the Blues. Burke's best team must have been the 1948 aggregation of Ed Weaver and company. The only unbeaten crew was the 1950 array that won seven and tied one, a scoreless duel in the opener with Highland. As the 1953 football books are closed out, let's pause and doff our cap to Bill Burke for another fine job.

Video's Delight: "Who won the fight?" asked the voice on the phone.

"What fight?" responded the sports staffer of the Boston Globe.

"I don't know. It was on television and I bet on the man in the right hand corner!"

Tug Wilson New Olympic Head

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—American Olympic officials today start choosing the men to be entrusted with seeing to it that the United States retains its unofficial world championship in the 1956 Olympics.

And for the first time since the 1924 games, overall supervision will rest in the hands of someone other than Avery Brundage. The new boss of the U. S. Olympic Assn. is Kenneth L. Tug Wilson, best known to American sports fans as Commissioner of the Big 10. He had been vice president of the Olympic Association, and was elevated to the top job upon the retirement of Brundage. Wilson will keep his Big 10 post.

The 66-year-old Brundage decided to give up his U. S. Olympic position because of his recent selection as president of the International Olympic Committee. He figured it might lead to charges of bias if he held both jobs at the same time.

Cup Hopes Dip As Trabert Loses

Melbourne, Dec. 1 (AP)—America's hopes of regaining the Davis Cup, fairly high upon the arrival of the U. S. team several weeks ago, hit a new low today with the stunning defeat of U. S. champion Tony Trabert by Rex Hartwig, an Australian second-stringer.

Hartwig, playing at the peak of his game, eliminated Trabert in the quarterfinals of the Victorian tennis championships with the loss of only one set 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. It was the greatest victory of his career for Hartwig, who caused a furore here when he was left off last year's Davis Cup team. This year he is a member.

But he's not in the class of Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, the Aussie stars, and that's what's worrying the American team. George Worthington isn't in the class of his countrymen Rosewall and Hoad, either, yet he was able to defeat Wimbledon champ Vic Seixas yesterday.

If Hartwig and Worthington can whip the best Americans in preliminary tournaments, what chance will Trabert and Seixas have against the Aussie stars?

Three bowling teams representing Mid-West brewers finished among the first four teams in the 1953 ABC tournament.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

It should have been a perfect day to tie a tag on a buck's horn. Fair weather, a light steady breeze and warm enough so that the three or four inches of fresh snow that covered the leaves wouldn't creak under foot. And the deer were moving on the feed after the November snowstorm.

Not half a mile from camp, Andy hit two sets of tracks crossing the path. One was a trail of big prints, well separated and with plenty of drag mark on the snow, much as a buck might make. The other enough smaller to be either a yearling or a doe. They were fresh enough for him, and off he moved along the side of the ridge.

Higher up, I found where a whole cavalcade of deer had wandered across a road. Figuring that Andy would either push game in my direction or anything I started might drop toward him, I took up the trail.

Fifteen minutes later we came together where six or seven beds melted into the snow and tracks in barnyard quantities indicated that the two bunches of deer had been holding some sort of convocation. And we had broken it up.

While we were standing there by the empty beds whispering strategies that are half the fun of hunting crafty whitetail, Andy suddenly motioned me to silence and pointed straight down through the rock maples. "That's a deer down there?"

I fished the binoculars from under my jacket shirt and focused them along the line of his finger. First a nervous tail, then legs, body in gray winter coat, head down to feed and finally a rack showed in my glasses. "Yes, a young buck appear to be a six-pointer," I told Andy. "Go ahead and take him."

Up came his 45-70 lever-action that Andy had regarded as his meat gun for several seasons, ever since he'd rolled over a heavy buck through a curtain of brush. But this time his pet rifle failed him and slowly he dropped the butt from his shoulder.

"I can't see enough of him over these sights, not through the trees. Too likely to miss. Can you get him with the scope?"

That was too good a chance to pass up, too pat an opportunity to settle once and for all those arguments about hunting sights. I steadied my rifle, scope sighted, with my elbows braced on the rock.

Down through the second growth I could see the deer all right. As he stepped back to nip some greenery from which he had pawed the light snow, his fore-quarters showed clear through a hat-size hole between the tree branches. Recoil jarred my crosshairs off his shoulder as the bullet hit, but we didn't really need to run down the hill to make sure I'd dropped him. A second look through the rifle scope had already established that.

AP Poll Gives Them 187-141 Edge Over ND

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Maryland, the only college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the 1953 national collegiate football championship from undefeated but once-tied Notre Dame.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and headed for a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, earned the coveted C. Donnell Trophy today in the final Associated Press ranking poll of the season.

The O'Donnell Trophy, donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in honor of the late Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the basis of the Associated Press poll.

The final 1953 poll brought out a record number of 376 votes. Even Maryland's idleness last Saturday while Notre Dame was thumping Southern California 48-14 failed to change the opinion of the sports writers and broadcasters who voted the Old Liners into first place last week.

Notre Dame, the pre-season favorite, had been first in every poll until tied by Iowa Nov. 21.

Receive 187 Votes

In the showdown vote, Maryland received 187 first place ballots and 3,365 points to 141 firsts and 3,149 points for Notre Dame. Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Michigan State, last year's champion, finished third with 2,756 points. The Spartans were followed by Oklahoma, UCLA, Rice, Illinois, Georgia Tech, Iowa and West Virginia.

Nine of the first ten teams were ranked in the top group a week later. Virginia returned to tenth place in the final call-over, replacing Texas, which dropped from seventh to eleventh after a close call in its final game.

Maryland was rated only ninth in the pre-season rankings.

Seven of the top 10 teams and 10 of the first 20 will appear in New Year's Day bowl games. In addition to the Orange Bowl meeting between Maryland and fourth-ranked Oklahoma, Michigan State (3) will play UCLA (5) in the Rose Bowl, Georgia Tech (8) and West Virginia (10) will meet in the Sugar Bowl, Rice (6) and Alabama (13) in the Cotton Bowl and Texas Tech (12) and Auburn (17) in the Gator Bowl.

Detroit's Howe Leads NHL Race

Montreal, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gordie Howe of Detroit monopolized the scoring honors in the National Hockey League this week, leading in total points and assists and sharing the top spot in goals.

Official league statistics today showed Howe picked up three goals and two assists during the Red Wings' 20-goal scoring spree in which they blanketed Toronto 2-0 and then humiliated Chicago 9-0 and 9-4.

Howe has scored 29 points, four more than linemate Ted Lindsay. His total includes 10 goals, the same as Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard of Montreal, and 19 assists.

In addition to dominating the scoring the Red Wings have the best defensive record, allowed only 32 goals in 22 games for an average of 1.45.

Two Top Draft Men Picked Up By Baltimore

Atlanta, Dec. 1 (AP)—The major league draft, which netted 13 cut-rate bargains from the minors for $132,500, may have opened the door for future trades and the big league teams may now feel disposed to toss established players into the trade market.

Baltimore, for instance, drafted Vinicio Garcia, a highly touted second baseman from Shreveport and veteran centerfielder Chuck Diering, a proved ball hawk, from San Francisco. That would seem to open up the possibility of a deal involving second baseman Bobby Young or centerfielder Johnny Groth. The Orioles are sadly in need of a first and third baseman as well as pitchers.

Garcia batted .305 last season. He was No. 1 pick in the draft. Diering, former St. Louis Cardinal and New York Giant outfielder, never hit in the majors but is a fine defensive outfielder. He hit .322 with Minneapolis, Detroit endeavored to plug an infield weakness by drafting first baseman Charlie Kress (.317 at Rochester) and second baseman Harry Bright (.295 at Memphis).

Kress, who had been up with Cincinnati and the Chicago White Sox before is a flashy fielder, hit 25 home runs and drove in 121 runs with the International League pennant winners. He will battle it out with Walter Dropo for the regular job. Bright, a handy-andy type of infielder, should help out now that Jerry Priddy has left the club to manage in the Pacific Coast League.

The White Sox, in dire need of left-handers to supplement Billy Pierce, grabbed two southpaw pitchers, Al Sima from Chattanooga and Joke Thompson from Baltimore of the International League. Both have seen big league service.

Simas was 2-3 with Washington last season and Thompson 10-4 at Baltimore.

The Boston Bruins are the heaviest team in the National Hockey League. The average Bruin weighs 181.3 pounds.

The Hula Bowl game, annual Hawaii benefit football classic, will be played in Honolulu Stadium, Jan. 10, 1954.

Meets Art Nielsen In Feature Bout

Ray Gunkel, newest protege of former world's heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, will open an eastern wrestling tour Monday, Dec. 7, at the municipal auditorium. Promoter Ted Bayly announced today.

Gunkel and the old Manassa Mauler were seen on the TV circuit from Chicago last Saturday night, as Gunkel bested the Mighty Atlas in two out of three falls.

Gunkel, 6 feet 1 inch, 225-pounder, who has been wrestling for the past three years, recently signed a contract making Dempsey his manager for the next five years.

Meets Art Nielsen

His opponent for the two out of three fall tussle will be Art Nielsen, a rough and ready grappler from Atlanta, Ga. Nielsen is anything but peachy inside the ring and is a top villain at Marigold Gardens in Chicago.

Gunkel's athletic career closely parallels that of Vern Gagne, the U. S. mat champion. Gunkel, like Gagne, played football and wrestled at Purdue University. A lineman on the gridiron, he won mention as one of the mid-west's best. He won the National Collegiate wrestling championship before graduating to the professional ranks.

Abe Zaharias, a veteran who knows all the tricks, was Gunkel's first victim under Dempsey's management. That was two weeks ago and last week he followed up with a triumph over Mighty Atlas.

Two other bouts will complete the card.

Robert L. Chambers has been trainer of Duke University athletic teams since 1933. He is also the head track coach.

Frank Leahy Jr., 17, will enroll at Notre Dame next year. He's a football player, too.

The starting gate used in horse racing was used in pre-Christian times.

Begin 37th Year on Force

LT. JAMES P. MARTIN

PTL. ELBERT SOPER

Two members of the Kingston Police Department observe the beginning of their 37th year on the local force today. It was on December 1, 1917, that Lt. James P. Martin and Patrolman Elbert Soper joined Kingston's "finest." No particular celebration is planned, it was reported this morning. Martin was appointed patrolman December 1, 1917, was advanced to sergeant on September 1, 1937, and to lieutenant on November 1, 1948. Soper, who was a motorcycle officer for many years, came to the force from the employ of J. Graham Rose, purchasing agent for the Cokkendall estate. He and Mrs. Soper, who reside at 84 Hilton Place, will celebrate their 44th wedding anniversary in the spring. Lt. and Mrs. Martin, who have seven married sons and daughters, reside at 247 West Chestnut street.

Neil Johnston Boosts NBA Lead With 366 Points

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors is heading for a successful defense of the National Basketball Association scoring title.

The 6-9 center came from a 26-point deficit a week ago to a 50-point lead by scoring 127 points in five games to take over the league lead with 366 points, according to official league statistics.

George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers, who held the lead last week, tallied only 51 points in two games for a total of 316.

Johnston, who averaged less than 20 points in his first eight games, has piled up 210 points in his last eight for an average of 26.3. His season average is 22.9. Mikan's average is 19.8. Both men have played 16 games.

New York's Harry Gallatin climbed from fifth to third with a total of 244 points. Easy Ed Macaulay, Boston's stringbean center, soared all the way from 16th to fourth, getting 100 points in five games for a total of 240.

Newspaper Strike Still Continues

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A union official indicated today New York's newspaper strike will continue at least another 24 hours.

Denis M. Burke, president of striking Local 1 of the AFL International Photo Engravers Union, said a membership meeting of the union to consider publishing proposals has been set for 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Burke said no agreement between union negotiators and the publishers can be effective until it is ratified by the union membership.

The strike of the 400 photo engravers has resulted in a shutdown of the seven major newspapers in New York for the first time in the city's publishing history. Other newspaper unions have observed the engravers' picket lines.

Representatives of the engravers' union and the publishers are scheduled to resume talks at noon today.

The public, deprived of its usual quota of about 5 1/2 million newspapers a day, turned to the radio and TV for news coverage. Retail stores also took to the air to carry on the momentum of the first surge of the Christmas shopping rush.

Out of town newspapers were snapped up.

The morning New York Herald Tribune continued to publish until today. It was unaffected by the strike as it sends its engraving work to a private concern.

It announced last night, however, it was suspending publication indefinitely. It said it would not let itself be used as a lever to force a strike settlement on its competitors in the dispute over wages and other issues with the photo engravers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—The stock market dropped a little today in a mild reaction from the unusual strength shown in the two previous sessions.

The decline went to between 1 and 2 points at the outside with most changes in the smaller fractions. Gains also went to between 1 and 2 points infrequently.

No single section of the market was under pressure from selling. Rubbers were higher as a group. Steels remained virtually unchanged along with the utilities and oils. The railroads were mixed as were coppers, aircrafts, farm implements, and radio-televisions.

Going lower were motors, tobacco, chemicals, and distillers.

Lower stocks included Chrysler, United Aircraft, Schenley Industries, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, General Electric, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, Santa Fe, and Loews. Higher were Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, American Smelting, Southern Pacific, and Pan American World Airways.

County Aides Get

Insurance, following a three months notice to employees.

Employees now under the State Retirement plan must remain under that system unless they cease to be employed, even though that classification is placed under Social Security. However all new employees under the classification would go under Social Security when they enter employment, under the action taken by the board Monday evening.

Must Remain
If a group elects to go under Social Security it must remain under that system for seven years before a change may be made back to the State Retirement System.

Johnson answered numerous questions in relation to Social Security, a system which he said was not fully understood by many persons.

The resolution adopted Monday evening by the board was to the effect that a resolution may be offered at some later date after due notice has been given, that specified classifications of county employees will be placed under Social Security if they have not chosen to be covered by State Retirement.

Also under the county employees heading a communication was read from Henry Galpin, salary research analyst of the Civil Service Employees Association, Inc., requesting a 15% increase in salaries on behalf of the Ulster County Chapter of Civil Service Employees. He also requested the cost of living bonus be frozen into the base salary and requested consideration of longevity allowances and also that the travel mileage payment be increased from 8 cents a mile to 10 cents a mile. The matter was referred to the Budget Committee.

Chief Probation Officer Edmund U. Burhans be given more office space and a place to interview probationers in private. This was referred to the Budget Committee.

The committee on Town Expenses recommended sewer assessments in the Town of Lloyd sewer district in the sum of $2,315.88 be assessed and levied against property in the district. A motion to that effect was adopted. The same committee presented a recommendation that unpaid Town of Lloyd sewer district assessments in the sum of $387.40 be levied and assessed against those properties upon which the assessment adopted.

County Commissioner of Public Welfare Murray reported the cost of inmates in the county home was $36,918.28. The city of Kingston's share is $20,077.99. The committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare reported it had examined the accounts, had visited the home and found all in order. A resolution was later presented to assess and levy on the towns and city their proportionate share of the cost.

The cost for children in the Industrial and Boarding Homes of the county was reported by the committee on Commissioner of Public Welfare to be $176,385.43. Kingston city's share is $85,132.44. A motion was made that the amount be assessed and levied.

Home Relief and Hospitalization costs amounted to $35,502.48, the committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare reported. Kingston's share is $15,333.41. Burial charges were $495.50. These sums will be apportioned.

Would Be County Charge
Supervisor Wilson of Woodstock suggested that the board give consideration in the future to making Child Welfare and Hospitalization a county charge rather than a charge-back to the individual towns. He said the present method was burdensome to some towns and he cited New Paltz and Poughkeepsie which were called on to raise over $10,000 each for this work which he said should not be a town responsibility but rather a county responsibility. He said in the past the cost of Forest Fire fighting for many years has been a town charge. There came a time when a very large fire happened in one town. This had been extremely burdensome and for some time past now the Forest Fire fighting cost had been a county charge. Forests were not individual town benefits but county wide and he said the charge was properly a county-wide charge.

Supervisor Wilson, who has been elected to the New York State Assembly, introduced his successor Joseph Fitzsimmons who will become supervisor of the town of Woodstock on January 1.

Clerk Robert Snyder announced a meeting of the Budget Committee on Thursday at 1 p. m. He also requested all supervisors get in their bills by the next meeting and also all sewer district charges be in by that time.

The board adjourned to 8 p. m. Thursday.

Parking Lot Hours Are Discussed at Session of Board

Parking hours at the John street parking lot, where parking meters were recently installed, have come in for considerable discussion both among the public and members of the board of supervisors.

The question was debated at great length Monday evening at a caucus which preceded the meeting of the board and as a result there will be a revision in the local law governing the parking area on John street and also the Main street lot when meter installation is completed there.

Supervisor Cook moved that a date for a public hearing on the matter of changing the hours when the meters will operate to coincide with the hours during which the street meters operate.

Presently the John street meters are in use from 8 a. m. until midnight. Parking meters on the public streets operate from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., except on Sundays and holidays, and on Fridays until 9 p. m.

Street Parking Free
With the parking lot meters in operation until midnight few people use the parking lot in the evening but park on the street where parking is free.

Six days notice must be given the public hearing date and at that hearing the public may express opinions on parking. The board after the public hearing may enact regulations governing parking.

The three proposed changes in the present local law, which was approved on Nov. 3, are:
Change in the hours from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on week days, except Fridays when the parking charge will be in effect from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays and holidays will be free.

Making it unlawful to park in the lot in any area which is not metered and marked out in stalls. Give the sheriff the power to tow away any car which remains illegally parked and make the owner responsible for this towing charge before they may get the impounded car.

Parking Lot Empty
There has been much discussion

among the public over the extension of the parking hours in the park to midnight when free parking is permitted on the public streets. This has forced on-street parking to assume great proportion while the parking lot has been practically empty in the evening.

Parking charges in the lot are five cents an hour with a limit of three hours for fifteen cents. There is nothing in the revised plan to change the parking charge or the limit beyond the three hour period.

Clerk Robert A. Snyder stated after the meeting that the date for the public hearing would be announced and published within the next few days.
